INTRODUCTION

Situated around a spectacular harbour and surrounded by beautiful scenery, Wellington is compact, lively, and home to fantastic beaches, green spaces, creative culture, events, shops, and a thriving food scene.

The city is ideal for student life—as New Zealand’s capital, it is also the country’s political and cultural heart. Many students consider their years at university to be some of the best in their lives. Whether it is in one of the University’s halls of residence or flatting, finding the right place to live will help you make the most of your time at Te Herenga Waka—Victoria University of Wellington.

Halls are a great option for first-year students. They are safe and supportive communities of students from different backgrounds with varying interests and offer an academic-focused environment to transition to university life. Each hall organises activities for students so they can lead a balanced life of study and socialising. Our halls are committed to the care and welfare of residents, and each has a dedicated team of hall staff on site to ensure that the hall is a safe, healthy, and positive community conducive to study.

Many students move out of halls after their first year. However, there are a number of self-catered facilities available and you have the option to continue living in university accommodation for the remainder of your studies, with fully furnished flats and houses close to our campuses. There are some financial advantages to living in a hall due to inclusive costs and shorter contracts that correspond to the academic year. See the University’s Financial Survival Guide for sample budgets for living in the halls and flatting.

Flatting with other people may suit you if you are organised and independent. You will be responsible for cooking some, or all, of your meals; managing electricity, food, internet, and phone bills; and doing housework. Costs vary according to the type of building, distance from the University, and whether you share food and other expenses.

University Accommodation Wellington can help you decide which option is best for you and guide you to find a suitable home. We process applications for the halls of residence and offer advice about a range of other accommodation options.
APPLYING FOR A HALL OF RESIDENCE

Online applications open on 1 August 2021 for 2022 hall accommodation. You do not have to gain admission to the University before applying. The deadline to submit an application for first-round offers is 1 October 2021. Early offers may be made from 15 September 2021. To access the online application, you must first register with your email address and password. We recommend you do not use your school email address to register.

Applying before 15 September 2021 increases your chances of getting a place in a hall for the 2022 academic year. Applying by this date also means that any issues with your application, payment, or reference can be resolved before the closing date.

Choose your three hall preferences carefully. We consider all three choices equally, therefore we recommend you only select halls that you would like to live in. If you decline an offer of a place from one of the halls listed on your application, it is unlikely you will receive another offer. We advise against listing only our most popular halls (Capital Hall, Katharine Jermyn Hall, and Te Puni Village). These halls usually fill their spaces from those who have chosen them as their first preference and seldom pick students who have made them their second or third choice. The last day to change your hall preferences is 15 September 2021 as halls will start to review applicants from mid-September.

You are welcome to visit the halls. Contact them in advance to make private arrangements, book a tour during the school holidays through our website, or come to Open Day on Friday 20 August 2021 for scheduled tours. For private arrangements, allow 10–15 minutes per tour as well as travel time between halls.

Take care with your personal profile. It plays an important part in the selection process as it provides an insight into who you are and how you can add to the hall community. Aim for at least three sentences for each question, where possible.

If you are an applicant under the age of 20 attending university for the first time in 2022, you must arrange for a completed Common Confidential Reference form to be sent to University Accommodation Wellington. If you are a New Zealand domestic secondary school applicant, you should talk to your school to arrange this.

In addition, gap year applicants may want to arrange a more up-to-date reference in the form of a letter from an employer, tutor, minister, sports coach, or the like.

If you are a domestic student under the age of 18 at move-in date, you will be placed on a non-alcohol floor for the full academic year. Your application may be restricted to a limited number of halls. All students over the age of 20 as at 1 August 2021 will be offered a self-catered hall only.
If you are an international student under the age of 18 years, we require you to stay in one of the following accommodation options: a catered hall; a homestay; with your parents; or with a designated caregiver.

If your application is incomplete after 1 October 2021, it will not go through to the initial selection process. If your application is finalised after 1 October, we will ask you to join the application pool to be considered for late offers. For more information, see page 10.

Include any special requirements in your application (for allergy, diet, health, wellbeing, religious, financial, or other reasons). This helps us to ensure you have chosen the most appropriate halls to meet and support your needs.

International students should indicate any planned early arrival in your application if possible or contact University Accommodation Wellington ahead of time. The team will make temporary accommodation arrangements when necessary at local hostels or other halls of residence (depending on the availability) at your expense, in conjunction with Wellington University International.

Apply only once. Multiple applications from the same person will cause delays in processing. To make changes to your application, or if you forget your username, email us at accommodation@vuw.ac.nz

Applications for Trimester 1 only (February–May) are accepted from applicants who will finish their studies at the end of Trimester 1. Contracts for Trimester 1 only will attract an additional levy of 10 percent to cover the cost of finding a subsequent replacement for the room.

It is never too late to apply for a hall throughout the academic year. Applications for Trimester 2 open on 1 April, and students seeking accommodation for Trimester 3 can apply from 1 August.

Selection Process

We guarantee an offer of a place in one of our halls to all students who have NCEA Level 2 (or above) endorsed with Excellence (or equivalent in another qualification), when they apply before the accommodation deadlines. Students who are awarded a Wellington Tangiwai, Totoweka, or Kahotea scholarship (school-leaver scholarships) and international students are also guaranteed an offer of accommodation from the University, though this may not necessarily be in your first choice of hall.

Where possible, we will place you according to your choices. However, we do not guarantee an offer of a place in your first choice hall unless you have specific health or disability needs that require appropriate facilities and support offered by that hall.

In some instances, we may offer you a place in a hall you have not chosen. For the best chance of getting a place, make sure you complete the online application form on time.

Applications open on 1 August 2021 and are due for first-round offers by 1 October 2021. To be eligible for an offer of accommodation, you must apply by the due date and have a satisfactory confidential reference from your school. Halls will begin to review applications from mid-September. The majority of accommodation offers are made approximately one to two weeks after the application due date. However, no student is guaranteed to receive an offer at this point in the offer process.

Additional offers will be made up until the first week of Trimester 1 as spaces become available. Heads of halls choose applicants according to the University’s guaranteed offer and equity criteria, and work towards creating a diverse hall community by considering gender balance, cultural diversity, degree type, and geographical representation.

OCTOBER 2021–FEBRUARY 2022
OFFERS PROCESS

University Accommodation Wellington generally receives more hall applications than the number of beds available. It is simply not possible for us to offer everyone accommodation at once. As a result, some applicants will not receive an offer in the first few weeks after 1 October. These students will be sent an email request to join the waiting pool to select more halls and to be considered for offers made further on in the offer process. Applicants who satisfy the guaranteed offer or equity criteria and have completed their application by 1 October will be given priority within the waiting pool.

As applicants decline their offers between October and the beginning of Trimester 1, we make offers to applicants in the waiting pool to fill vacancies. To increase your chances of gaining a place, we recommend you expand your preferences to at least five halls at the time of joining the waiting pool.

We also recommend that you do not decline an offer because you want to be offered a place in another hall. It is unlikely you will receive a second offer and students who have yet to receive an offer will be considered before you.

To ensure the waiting pool operates as efficiently as possible, we will email you occasionally to confirm whether you would like to remain in the pool. If we do not hear from you within an appropriate timeframe, your application will become inactive and will be removed from the pool. In addition, please let us know if you are no longer coming to Te Herenga Waka—Victoria University of Wellington to study, so we can make offers to students who are still committed to enrolling at the University.

Your application is important to us and we will endeavour to place you in one of our halls, if possible. However, if you do not receive an offer of a place in a hall by mid-February, we recommend that you start looking at alternative accommodation, such as private hostels or a room in an established flat. If you have any questions about the waiting pool or alternative accommodation, contact University Accommodation Wellington.
FEES AND CHARGES

DEPOSIT
Upon acceptance of an offer of accommodation, a deposit is required, which is typically around $600. The deposit has three components:

■ activities fee
■ administration fee
■ bond.

If you withdraw from the contract before the withdrawal date specified in the contract, we will refund the activities fee and bond. If you withdraw after the withdrawal date, you will forfeit the deposit.

ACCOMMODATION FEES
The accommodation fees are payable in advance. Most halls charge monthly fees, with the first instalment due in early February.

New Zealand students will not receive StudyLink assistance soon enough to pay the first hall instalment and it will not cover the full cost of subsequent instalments.

Contracts for Trimester 1 only will attract an additional levy of 10 percent to cover the cost of finding a subsequent replacement for the room.

ADDITIONAL COSTS
In some halls, the costs for the following may be additional to the accommodation fees:

■ electricity
■ food
■ internet
■ laundry
■ telephone.

SUPPORTING OUR RESIDENTS

Te Herenga Waka—Victoria University of Wellington prioritises the welfare of our resident student community, assisting residents with wellbeing and support services. We enable our students to thrive in our community, providing a residential environment that supports wellbeing, social connection, and academic success. With a strong team of hall staff, a hall whānau culture, and excellent support services in place, students in halls of residence in their first year have the opportunity to transition to university life with support. They enjoy full access to everything the University has to offer in this regard, from health and wellbeing services and recreational facilities to academic assistance and help managing finances.

We see student wellbeing as underpinned by a strong partnership between the student, our halls of residence, university support services, and parents and whānau. Each party has an important role to play in ensuring students’ welfare and academic success.

Our resident students can expect a high standard of care while they live in our accommodation at every stage of their academic career.

We are committed to continual improvement and work to incorporate evolving best practices in the student accommodation sector that align with New Zealand’s code of practice pastoral care standards for both domestic and international students.

It is important to ensure residents are safe and flourish in an academic environment, and staff need to know about any special health or wellbeing needs you may have. You can disclose these, or any concerns you may have, when you confirm your offer of accommodation. We can then tailor a pastoral care plan to your needs.

If you have any questions or concerns about coming into a hall environment, you are welcome to contact the student support coordinators or heads of halls directly.

HEADS OF HALLS/RESIDENTIAL LIFE MANAGERS

Heads of halls and residential life managers (in independent living precincts) oversee the welfare of residents. They manage all staff and operations at their hall or precinct. The head of hall works with the deputy head of hall, residential advisers, night managers, and student support coordinators to ensure students are living in a safe environment that supports their wellbeing and academic performance. Heads of halls and residential life managers work closely with their colleagues to provide a very high and consistent standard of care, and to build communities that live the University’s core ethical values of respect, responsibility, fairness, integrity, and empathy.

DEPUTY HEADS OF HALLS

Deputy heads of halls work with the heads of halls to provide leadership and management within the hall environment. Their role includes assisting the coordination of the residential adviser team and managing responses to residents’ behaviour. Their role is essential in building each hall’s sense of community and individual culture. The deputy heads of halls also contribute to disciplinary processes and function as a conduit to the University’s support services.

RESIDENTIAL ADVISERS

Residential advisers (RAs) are high-achieving senior students employed and trained by the University to support residents’ transition into tertiary study, develop and maintain the hall’s sense of community, and provide leadership through the provision of social and academic learning opportunities. The RAs live on site and a group of residents is assigned to them. The RAs are often the first point of contact for residents needing assistance or support as they negotiate the challenges of living in a communal environment away from home.
NIGHT MANAGERS

Night managers work on site outside regular office hours, supporting the management team in the running of the hall. Their focus is on the health, welfare, and safety of residents, as well as ensuring the security of hall buildings. The night manager works in conjunction with the RAs, assisting with duty rounds and addressing any incidents that may occur.

STUDENT SUPPORT COORDINATORS

Student support coordinators (SSCs) are qualified health professionals who draw on their expertise as social workers, counsellors, and occupational therapists to support residents and offer professional supervision for RAs. The SSCs are assigned to each hall to help manage responses to residents with complex needs. They work closely with other health professionals at the University, notably Student Health and Counselling, as well as Disability Services, Student Finance, and the University’s student advisers. The SSCs also work closely with the heads and deputy heads of halls to ensure health and wellbeing goals are realised in each hall community.

SENIOR RESIDENTS

Senior residents are senior students trained in helping international students transition into a New Zealand flatting environment. Sharing a house with new people comes with its own set of challenges, and senior residents will help resolve day-to-day flatting issues and keep you informed about events and student services.

RESTORATIVE JUSTICE

Starting university and being away from home for the first time is a milestone many people look back on for the rest of their lives. With it comes the freedom to make your own choices and the excitement of meeting new people.

Living with others can also bring challenges, and the staff in our halls of residence work hard to ensure a safe and positive environment for residents. As Te Herenga Waka—Victoria University of Wellington is a restorative justice university, the halls utilise restorative justice processes to address conflict and rule breaking—an approach that aims to repair any harm caused.

This process requires everyone affected to work together to reach an agreement about what must be done to restore relationships. A restorative community is one in which all members are valued and feel they belong, and where all contribute to the common good. These communities are founded on mutual care and respect.
EVENTS CALENDAR

Each year, the University’s halls participate in a varied inter-hall sports and cultural events calendar. These events provide an opportunity for all students to participate and develop their strengths in many ways throughout the year. In conjunction with the large range of inter-hall events, each hall carries out inter-floor activities to develop and strengthen the community within the hall. To maintain students’ focus, events are not scheduled during the periods around study week and exams. An example of a halls event calendar is below:

MARCH
- Orientation events: Inter-floor
- Gaming: Inter-hall
- Debating: Inter-hall

APRIL
- Variety show: Inter-hall

MAY
- Swimming: Inter-hall

JUNE
- Volleyball: Inter-hall
- Study week: Inter-floor
- Exams
CHARITY EVENTS

Students in Te Herenga Waka—Victoria University of Wellington’s halls of residence organise a series of charitable events each year as they vie for the Lesley O’Cain Charity Cup—awarded after an inter-hall competition—by raising money for Wellington Free Ambulance and Wellington Rape Crisis, plus a third charity of their choice. Events include dinners, quizzes, and sports events. Many of the University’s halls also take part in additional charitable events throughout the year including street appeals, clean-ups, and voluntary work.

CATERING

Moving away from home means you may be eating food that is different from your family’s cooking and what you normally eat.

We really appreciate that food matters, and we invest in expert catering to make sure you get the nutritional support you need while you stay in our halls. We are also dedicated to looking after those of you with dietary requirements that may be stressful to manage in an unfamiliar environment.

When you apply for accommodation, make sure you tell us what your dietary needs are so we can plan in advance how to support you.

Here is how we’ll provide you with the best food experience possible:

■ Menus are designed by a dedicated education dietitian and chef managers and are available to view through the Food4Me app (in most catered halls), which also allows residents to order GrabNGo and late meals.

■ Menus change to meet the seasons and fresh, seasonal produce is our inspiration.

■ A dietitian ensures that all the menus meet the national guidelines regarding well-balanced choices for young adults.

■ We ensure there is a full allergen menu for all the significant likely allergens (fish, gluten, nut, and shellfish) and each hall is audited on a regular basis to ensure allergen management practices are being strictly adhered to.

■ We cater for religious and dietary preferences, including halal, vegetarian, and vegan.

■ All halls are nut-free in the first weeks of Trimester 1 until it is clearly established that no student will be at risk.

■ We encourage students to get to know their catering team at the start of the year—they welcome feedback via the Food4Me app.

■ Our kitchens are production spaces—we are gluten friendly, not gluten free; however, we are able to cater for coeliacs and students with gluten sensitivities.

The University is the first tertiary institution to achieve gluten-free accreditation in the country, thanks to a partnership with Coeliac New Zealand.

FLATTING

There are two ways to move into a flat. You can move into a vacant flat (by yourself or in a group) or into a vacant bedroom in an already established flat (with existing flatmates). Leases are normally fixed for 12 months, but it is possible to find shorter subleases, or you can live in university flats that are rented for the academic year (see Kelburn Flats—Whare Hīnau on page 44).

Like everywhere, rent is variable as it depends on the flat’s condition, number of rooms, and distance from the city. For unfurnished properties within walking distance of the Kelburn campus, you should expect to pay around $320–$430 per week for a one-bedroom flat, $450–$560 for a two-bedroom flat, or $560–$720 for a three-bedroom flat. For furnished properties, you should expect an additional charge of $50–$100 per week.

The average cost for a bedroom in a student flat is $220–$250 per week. There are some cheaper places, but they are likely to be a long way from campus, small, or cold. Wellington can be chilly in winter and few flats have central heating or double glazing.

Keep in mind the set-up costs of flatting. These include a bond (usually two weeks’ rent but can be up to four weeks’ rent), connection charges for electricity, gas, internet, and telephone, and furniture. Furnished accommodation can be difficult to find and relatively expensive. You can hire furniture and appliances or purchase them second-hand. In some cases, landlords or departing tenants provide furniture at a cost.
