Te Herenga Waka—Victoria University of Wellington

Te Herenga Waka—Victoria University of Wellington’s distinctiveness and identity are founded on its history, location, excellence in research and teaching, and commitment to making a prominent contribution to its local and global communities.

The University’s vision is to be a world-leading capital city university and one of the great global–civic universities, with the marae at our heart.

Being part of the nation’s capital furthers the university’s commitment to a distinctive sense of place, and its 125-year history—celebrated in 2022—is reflected in the English name of the university. Wellington city is home to much of New Zealand’s archived arts, heritage and cultural taonga, is the seat of government and the judiciary, and an important base for government ministries, non-government agencies, business, iwi, research organisations, cultural and environmental organisations, and the diplomatic community. The University’s staff and students benefit from, and also create, partnerships and innovative opportunities that contribute to the city’s identity, including its reputation as a hub for creativity and entrepreneurship.

Being a global-civic university, means valuing and prioritising international interconnectedness, and the University’s international reputation and relevance, while also being committed to drive positive change in the social, cultural and economic life of Wellington and its region.

Having Te Herenga Waka marae at its heart underpins the University’s bicultural identity, and the marae also provides the university’s te reo Māori name, meaning ‘the mooring post of canoes’. At Victoria University of Wellington, the traditions associated with civic and capital city universities are realised in conjunction with honouring Te Tiriti o Waitangi and Mātauranga and Te Ao Māori as core to everyday operations and life. The centrality of Te Herenga Waka marae links the University community to the ancestors of the land we are situated on and ties the university to the iwi of Aotearoa and to the wider Pacific. Symbolically, the marae and wider University are spaces where everyone, no matter where they are from, can ‘hitch their canoe’ and belong.

We are fortunate that our university ranks in the top 1 percent of the world’s 18,000 universities for 18 subjects and in the top 2 percent overall. It is New Zealand’s top-ranked university for intensity of high-quality research[1]—the only university to twice top the country’s main measure of research excellence. That strength underlies the rigour of our teaching and engagement.

The University has nine faculties, eight of which conduct teaching and research: Architecture and Design Innovation; Education; Engineering; Health; Humanities and Social Sciences; Law; Science; and the Wellington School of Business and Government. The Wellington Faculty of Graduate Research facilitates postgraduate research at the University. In addition, Toi huarewa is a forum for Māori academic issues. One of its primary roles is to ensure there is appropriate Māori content in the University’s teaching and research programmes.

The University operates from several sites. The original Kelburn campus provides the full range of student support and administration offices and is home to the Kelburn Library and the faculties of Education; Engineering; Health; Humanities and Social Sciences; and Science.

Te Aro campus, in the central city, houses the Wellington Faculty of Architecture and Design Innovation.

The Pipitea campus, in the heart of Wellington’s legal, government, and business district opposite New Zealand’s Parliament, comprises the Faculty of Law and the Wellington School of Business and Government.

Other facilities include the Wellington University Coastal Ecology Laboratory, the Miramar Creative Centre in the city’s film district, and the Gracefield Innovation Quarter, in Lower Hutt.

The University also has premises in Auckland and teaches internationally, offering commerce, computer science/engineering, science, intercultural communication, and Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) courses in China, Malaysia, and Viet Nam, and postgraduate courses in nursing, midwifery, and health in Sāmoa.

Strategic Plan

Confirmed by Council, October 2019

The University's 2020 Strategic Plan sets out the following goals for the University.

Vision

To be a world-leading capital city university and one of the great global–civic universities.

Heritage and position

Founded in 1897 as a civic university in support of Wellington and embedded in a constitutional fabric framed by Te Tiriti o Waitangi. Now positioned as Aotearoa New Zealand's globally ranked capital city university.

Values

Our core ethical values are respect, responsibility, fairness, integrity, and empathy. With, and as, tangata whenua, we value Te Tiriti o Waitangi, rangatiratanga, manaakitanga, kaitiakitanga, whai mātauranga, whanaungatanga, and akoranga.

Purpose

Our shared purpose is research, teaching, and engagement that transforms lives.

Iho and distinctiveness

We are a global–civic university with our marae at our heart. This iho (essence) is further defined by our heritage and by our tūrangawaewae—in particular Wellington, Aotearoa, and the Asia–Pacific. Our unique attributes stem from our values and our capital city location.

Strategies

1. Ambitious research for transformative impact
2. Education preparing students for an extraordinary life
3. Equitable outcomes for all
4. Engagement that deepens relevance, impact, and reputation
5. Belonging to the Asia–Pacific region
6. Transforming the way we work.

Te Rōpū o te Kura Wānanga o te Ūpokō o te Ika a Māui—the Victoria University of Wellington Students' Association (VUWSA) operates independently from the University and is free for all students of the University to join. Because it is student-led, student ideas shape everything it does. The VUWSA executive consists of 10 elected students who are responsible for the direction and governance of VUWSA. The executive, and more than 1,400 class representatives and Faculty delegates, are committed to making sure student voices and opinions are heard at all levels of the University.
