

Welcome to INFO 549

Brenda Chawner

Hello and welcome to INFO 549 Business Information Sources, which will be coordinated and taught by Brenda Chawner.

INFO 549 will introduce you to business concepts and a range of sources of business information, both New Zealand and overseas. We shall also look at the different groups who use this information, and how they use it.

My interest in business information has developed firstly as a result of working in the private sector in Canada, and subsequently through my involvement in setting up a private company. When I'm not working at the University, I look after many of the 'behind the scenes' administrative tasks involved in running a company in New Zealand; these include maintaining the accounting records, paying the bills and banking the cheques, sorting out the GST returns and payments, and working with the company's accountants on the annual accounts and financial statements. As you may expect, I am also the company's de facto librarian and information manager.

If you would like to discuss course content or assignments, please contact me as follows:

Email: brenda.chawner@vuw.ac.nz

Telephone: (04) 463 5780 (for calls within the Wellington free calling area).
Alternatively, call the Administration Office on (04) 463 5103.

Freephone: 0800 11 62 99 (for students calling from outside Wellington; ask to be transferred, or dial 5780 at the recorded message to talk to Brenda.)
Alternatively, our Administrative Office can relay a message.

Fax: (04) 463 5446

Room: EA 201, Easterfield Building.

If you have questions or comments about course material and activities, my preferred "channel" is the appropriate Blackboard discussion forum, so that all students can see your message, and participate in any subsequent discussion. I normally check the Blackboard discussion forums for new messages at 11.00 a.m. each workday morning.

However, if you prefer to send your message via email (particularly if it is sensitive or involves personal information), you should begin the subject line with to make it easier for me to have course-related email messages filtered to a separate folder. I will normally answer these messages between 11.30 a.m. and noon each workday; if your message arrives after 11.30 a.m., I will answer it the following workday.

One thing you need to keep in mind is that I am employed on a part-time basis, and may not be available every day. Nevertheless, I normally check my email at least once each day, and that is probably the best way to contact me if I'm not in my office. If you would like to see me or speak with me, it's best to make an appointment for a specific time. I will post a message to the Blackboard discussion forum if I intend to be away from the office for more than one working day.

If you wish to send something to me by post, my address is:

Brenda Chawner

School of Information Management
Victoria University of Wellington

Assignments should not be sent to the above address; see the details under 'Assessment' below. Non-assignment material being delivered by courier or in person should go to the SIM Administration Office, EA 121, Easterfield Building, Kelburn Campus, Victoria University of Wellington.

I am looking forward to this course, and hope that you find it both stimulating and enjoyable!

Course description

INFO 549 is an introduction to business concepts, sources of business information, and the information needs of different groups of people who use it. The primary emphasis is on identifying and retrieving external sources of business information, with particular reference to New Zealand.

Learning objectives

By the end of this course, students should be able to:

1. Define key business concepts and terminology.
2. Identify key characteristics of business information sources.
3. List the main categories of business information, and say how each is commonly used.
4. Outline, and demonstrate an ability to apply, criteria for evaluating sources of business information.
5. Identify and use a range of sources of business information, both print and electronic, with an emphasis on information available from external public and commercial sources.
6. Discuss the information needs of different client groups in the business sector, and the types of information services used to meet these needs.

Time commitment

To achieve satisfactory grades, a time commitment of approximately 10–12 hours per week is required for the INFO 549 course. Part of this time will be taken up in your weekly session. The remaining time should cover:

- reading set texts and articles — you are expected to have read these before the weekly session;
- completing practice exercises, and looking at reference sources, online databases, and World Wide Web resources;
- reading additional, non-required material on the topics;
- thinking about the module and taking notes on assigned practical work in preparation for the weekly session;
- writing assignments.

Please prepare your work before the session for which it is required. Since the course is conducted as a series of seminars, in which I hope you will have as much to contribute as I do, it is important that you have done the reading and can bring an informed point of view to class discussions. In some sessions I may ask you to talk about a specific topic, or to share your experience in exploring the resources we are discussing with the rest of your seminar group. You should always be prepared for this.

Course resources

The course material for INFO 549 includes: this course information section (in which the contents of the INFO 549 course are discussed along with course-specific administrative information and Internet conference or internal session details); and a CD-ROM containing readings and course notes associated with each of the 12 modules. The CD-ROM is augmented with material on the Blackboard website for INFO 549, available at

<http://blackboard.vuw.ac.nz>

Learning outcomes are specified for each study module. Students should note that some modules include practice questions for you to answer; you will need to look at reference sources, search databases, or look at websites on the Internet, in order to answer them. It is important that you try to find answers to the practice questions before the weekly session, as we will spend some time talking about the different strategies people in the group have used. Some of the questions may not have an obvious “right” answer, and one of the things we can talk about is what additional information you would need in order to be able to find an “answer”.

In the module notes you will encounter two types of boxes, which separate work to be done from the body of the text. Boxes in this format:

Now read Scott, J., and Wootliff, W. (1992). Business and commercial information. In Patti Dossett (Ed). Handbook of Special Librarianship and Information Work (6th ed., pp 145-169). London: Aslib. (Reading 1)

detail reading which you should do before continuing with the module text. These readings are either included as PDFs in the study module to which they apply (as in this case), or are available on the Internet. Boxes in this format:

Focus question

The sources Scott and Wootliff identify are primarily print, or electronic databases. Would business information available on the Internet fit into the categories Scott and Wootliff identify? Why, or why not?

contain focus questions. You should consider these, and jot down your answers or conclusions, before continuing with the module coursenotes. These focus questions will usually be discussed during the weekly session for the module.

The study notes for each module include a section entitled 'Preparation for the weekly session'. You should make sure that you complete the work listed in this section, including all the practical exercises and practice questions, before the weekly session for that module. Reading 'Preparation for the weekly session' before starting work on the module will help you to use your study time effectively.

Each week, discussion will be based on both:

- required readings from the material provided;
- introductory material, discussion points and exercises.

In addition, the Blackboard Web-based learning environment will be used to post course information notices, and enable ongoing electronic discussion forums on topics or issues introduced in or out of class. Students are also encouraged to use Blackboard for information sharing, and to post questions for electronic and in-class discussion.

Using or quoting from course notes

The course notes used in the LIM programmes have been developed over a period of time. As a result, each set of modules is likely to include new material contributed by the coordinator and staff involved in the current offering of the course, as well as material contributed by staff involved in earlier offerings. Every effort has been made by our academic and editorial staff to ensure that all material is correctly attributed and complies with the University's copyright license obligations. If quoting or referring to material written specifically for this course, you should treat it as being contributed anonymously rather than being attributable to the person delivering the particular module in which it appears, unless the authorship is clearly indicated.

Special requirements

As part of this course, you will need to use resources in libraries and on the Internet. For on-campus students Victoria University Library will supply most of your needs, but you may also find useful resources at the National Library and the Wellington City Libraries central branch. Open learning students will need to use the resources of a large university or public library. You should allow adequate time for this, and for finding your way around these libraries.

You will also be using selected databases and online services. Access to these services is possible from the School's computer laboratories, and from Victoria University Library. Open learning students will require access to the Internet to access these databases, and will need to use the student VUW off-campus databases list to access them, at

<http://www.vuw.ac.nz/library/research/databases/index.aspx>

For this course, you should begin to become familiar with the professional literature that discusses business information sources. Some of the journals you might like to review regularly are

- Business Information Review
- EContent (formerly Database)
- Information Outlook
- Information Today
- Information World Review
- Managing Information
- Online

Many of these are available as fulltext electronic journals through Victoria University Library's licensed electronic resources, which you can view via the Library's Journal Finder. Please note that I assume you have a basic familiarity with searching databases, and that you have some experience in using Dialog. If you have little background in this area, you may need to spend extra time on tutorials and other activities.

Dialog Classroom Instruction Programme

As part of the condition of being allowed access to Dialog under the Classroom Instruction Programme, you will need to sign and return the password agreement, which is downloadable from your CD-ROM. It is important that the Dialog account is used only under the conditions listed in the form. The Dialog account, and other accounts that you have access to for this course, should only be used by yourself for course-related searches. Failure to do this could result in future students losing the ability to take advantage of this Programme. You should also note that our Dialog accounts have a limit of 150 records output per hour of use.

Access to Knowledge Basket databases

As part of the condition of being allowed access to Knowledge Basket databases, you will need to sign and return the password agreement, which is downloadable from your CD-ROM. It is important that the Knowledge Basket account is used only under the conditions listed on the form. The Knowledge Basket account, and other accounts that you have access to for this course, should only be used by yourself for course-related searches. You should also note that access is restricted to before 11.00 a.m. and after 3.00 p.m. Failure to comply with this could result in future students losing the ability to use this service.

Students with special requirements

Students who have special requirements which are relevant to their successful completion of this course should speak to the Course Coordinator as soon as possible so that appropriate arrangements can be made.

Online information

In addition to material on the CD-ROM, you will be required to use the online resources for this course that are available in the School's Blackboard online learning environment:

<http://blackboard.vuw.ac.nz/>

The Blackboard environment will contain a Web-based forum for discussion of issues related to the course, links to sites of interest, additional readings and information, updates, etc. You should read the appropriate module web pages in conjunction with the material on your CD-ROM. Details on how to access Blackboard are in the Administration Handbook, but if you have any difficulties logging on please contact the Help Desk, at:

Internet conferencing

INFO 549 will deliver the Internet Conferencing sessions via Elluminate. The School of Information Management will be gathering structured feedback from both students and staff to evaluate the software. This will give students and staff involved in these courses a good opportunity to explore all the features and functionality of this new product.

The installation and set-up will be similar to Chatterbox. There is documentation available that will step you through the installation and configuration of Elluminate, and it is recommended that you follow these steps in advance of your first session. See

<https://conferencing.sim.vuw.ac.nz/help/illuminate.pdf>

Once installed, your weekly access to the Elluminate sessions will be through the SIM Internet Conferencing Site, as it is for Chatterbox, at

<https://conferencing.sim.vuw.ac.nz/>

In order to participate students will need an Internet-connected computer, microphone, and headphones/speakers. For further information, follow the help links on the Internet Conferencing page; details, including screen name conventions, are also available on Blackboard under LIM Programmes Information. General University Policies and Statutes

Students should familiarise themselves with the University's policies and statutes, particularly the Assessment Statute, the Personal Courses of Study Statute, the Statute on Student Conduct and any statutes relating to the particular qualifications being studied; see the Victoria University Calendar available in hard copy or under 'About Victoria' on the VUW home page at www.vuw.ac.nz.

Student and Staff Conduct

The Statute on Student Conduct together with the Policy on Staff Conduct ensure that members of the University community are able to work, learn, study and participate in the academic and social aspects of the University's life in an atmosphere of safety and respect. The Statute on Student Conduct contains information on what conduct is prohibited and what steps are to be taken if there is a complaint. For information about complaint procedures under the Statute on Student Conduct, contact the Facilitator and Disputes Advisor or refer to the statute on the VUW policy website at www.vuw.ac.nz/policy/studentconduct. The Policy on Staff Conduct can be found on the VUW website at www.vuw.ac.nz/policy/staffconduct.

Academic Grievances

If you have any academic problems with your course you should talk to the tutor or lecturer concerned; class representatives may be able to help you in this. If you are not satisfied with the result of that meeting, see the Head of School or the relevant Associate Dean; VUWSA Education Coordinators are available to assist in this process. If, after trying the above channels, you are still unsatisfied, formal grievance procedures can be invoked. These are set out in the Academic Grievances Policy which is published on the VUW website at <http://www.vuw.ac.nz/policy/academicgrievances>.

Academic Integrity and Plagiarism

Academic integrity is about honesty – put simply it means no cheating. All members of the University community are responsible for upholding academic integrity, which means staff and students are expected to behave honestly, fairly and with respect for others at all times.

Plagiarism is a form of cheating which undermines academic integrity. The University defines plagiarism as follows:

The presentation of the work of another person or other persons as if it were one's own, whether intended or not. This includes published or unpublished work, material on the Internet and the work of other student or staff.

It is still plagiarism even if you re-structure the material or present it in your own style or words.

Note: It is however, perfectly acceptable to include the work of others as long as that is acknowledged by appropriate referencing.

Plagiarism is prohibited at Victoria and is not worth the risk. Any enrolled student found guilty of plagiarism will be subject to disciplinary procedures under the Statute on Student Conduct and may be penalised severely. Consequences of being found guilty of plagiarism can include:

- an oral or written warning
- cancellation of your mark for an assessment or a fail grade for the course
- suspension from the course or the University.

Find out more about plagiarism, and how to avoid it, on the University's website at www.vuw.ac.nz/home/studying/plagiarism.html.

Students with Impairments

The University has a policy of reasonable accommodation of the needs of students with disabilities. The policy aims to give students with disabilities the same opportunity as other students to demonstrate their abilities. If you have a disability, impairment or chronic medical condition (temporary, permanent or recurring) that may impact on your ability to participate, learn and/or achieve in lectures and tutorials or in meeting the course requirements, please contact the Course Coordinator as early in the course as possible. Alternatively you may wish to approach a Student Adviser from Disability Support Services (DSS) to discuss your individual needs and the available options and support on a confidential basis. DSS are located on Level 1, Robert Stout Building, telephone (04) 463 6070, email disability@vuw.ac.nz. The name of your School's Disability Liaison Person is in the relevant prospectus or can be obtained from the School Office or DSS.
