Class Times and Room Numbers

Lectures

Rutherford House: RH LT1 Tuesdays, 14:40 - 16:30

Tutorials

Times and places for the tutorials will be posted on blackboard, and will be noted in class. Sign-up for tutorials will occur via S-cubed, instructions for which will be provided in class and on the blackboard site.

Tutorials commence in the week beginning 28 July and finish in week beginning 22 September.

Students will be expected to have read any handouts and the designated case study in the textbook, and be able to discuss the issues raised. Students will also be expected to keep abreast of international marketing news and issues in the media, and to be able to apply this knowledge to the discussion (and in the examination).

The tutorial participation mark will be allocated by the tutor on the basis of your attendance at tutorial, you having done the required preliminary reading, and your constructive involvement in tutorial discussion.

The examination will take place during the examination period (Monday 13 October – Saturday 8 November 2008).

Course Content

This course applies the marketing concepts covered in the 200-level marketing courses to the international arena and examines some of the major issues and decisions faced by New Zealand companies and organisations in marketing their goods and services abroad. It explores the process of globalisation and the rapidly changing international business environment, and the implications for marketing. It examines environmental analysis, export market opportunity assessment, and the use of SWOT analysis for formulating an international marketing strategy. Special attention is paid to the Asian economies and markets and to the impact of the Internet. The course also examines the role of culture and the problems and challenges of cross-cultural communication. Because of Victoria's position in the national capital, particular emphasis is laid on the impact of the political environment.

See the course schedule for a weekly description of topics, readings, and speakers

Course Objectives

- 1 To provide an introduction to the global economy, its structures and issues as relevant to international marketing.
- 2 To develop an understanding of, interest in and awareness of the international business environment, the marketing process, and the current issues facing New Zealand businesses and organisations.
- 3 To develop the ability to analyse international marketing situations, to undertake opportunity analysis and to communicate the results.
- 4 To develop an awareness of the complexity of cultural factors in international markets and the necessity of paying attention to cultural and location-specific factors when formulating international marketing strategy and, in particular, when communicating with potential customers.
- 5 To expose the varying, and sometimes conflicting, opinions about the global economy and about the theory and practice of international marketing, and to people actively involved in some of its practical aspects.
- 6 To introduce the emerging technologies exemplified by the Internet that are set to have a major impact on international marketing and to explore some of the potential and problems involved.
- 7 To increase the awareness of the challenges of the diverse markets of Asia.

All these objectives are assessed in the examinations. In addition, the research projects focus on objective 3.

Students passing this course should be able to:

- 1 Apply previously learnt marketing concepts to an international marketing situation.
- 2 Utilise the facilities available at Victoria University for obtaining information on international markets.
- 3 Have a basic understanding of the Internet and its implications for international marketing
- 4 Conduct an environmental analysis of a specific foreign market
- 5 Conduct an analysis of the Strengths, Opportunities, Weaknesses and Threats for a sample organisation engaged in international marketing.
- 6 Formulate a brief set of strategic recommendations for this sample organisation.

Expected Workload

The university guideline for a 300 level course is at least 12-14 hours per week for an 'average student' aiming to gain an 'average grade'. The exact amount of time will vary depending on student capabilities and backgrounds, but an indicative balance is as follows:

Activity	Hours
Class time	2
Tutorial	1
Reading and study	3-4
Assignment preparation	1-2
Course projects	3-4

Any student deviating significantly from these norms (apart from normal pressure points associated with the major assignment deadlines) should reassess the balance of their workload and, if necessary, discuss it with their tutor.

Group Work

Group research is a major part of this course because it is considered that students learn best through the practical application of conceptual and methodological tools to concrete problems. Students will be required to form into research groups, usually of 4 members. In order to provide the best forum for discussion of research problems during the course, these groups will be formed out of the tutorial groups.

Your groups will be formed in tutorials in the 4th or 5th week of the course and you should be working together on the group research project (Educational Services) from the week beginning 18 August until the final submission date, 3 October. During that period you might expect to spend 3-4 hours a week on the project as a whole, in line with the workload table above. Not much of that time will necessarily be spent physically together as a group. A lot of communication will be electronic, and half of the marks are for the individual component of the project (country-market analysis). However, it is good practice to have a physical group meeting at least once a week. Your tutor will attempt to get a balance between domestic and international students. Given the subject area, this combination should be extremely valuable and you are urged to make best use of it.

If there is disharmony within the group, and if you feel you are being disadvantaged by other members of the group, discuss this first of all with your tutor.

Readings

The textbook for the course is:

Czinkota, Michael R., Ilkka A. Ronkainen, Catherine Sutton-Brady, and Tim Beal.
International Marketing: Asia Pacific Edition.
Melbourne: Thomson Learning/Cengage, 2008.

This is a new book so unfortunately second-hand copies will not be available. The textbook is an essential part of the course and some of the examination questions will be based on quotations taken from it.

Further readings will be posted on the coursepage.

We will be making extensive use of multimedia material including videos shot in South Korea, Japan, India, and Hong Kong by Dr Tim Beal and Dr Michel Rod.

Materials and Equipment

No additional materials or equipment are required.

Penalties

A word limit is set so that staff can give equal attention to everybody's work. It is also important to remember that more does not equal better, and that concise communication is highly valued in business. You will be penalised by a loss of 10% of marks for every 100 words over the limit.

In fairness to other students, work submitted after the deadline will incur a penalty of 5% of the marks for the assignment for each weekday late. If you are not able to submit your work on time, in the MARK302 box on the mezzanine floor, you must hand it in either to the course co-ordinator to the school office on the 11th floor of Rutherford House.

MARK 302 coursepage: <http://www.vuw.ac.nz/~caplabtb/m302w08/>
or via Blackboard

You are expected to plan your work to make sufficient allowance for the requirements of other courses, work commitments, etc. In the event of serious illness or bereavement please talk to your tutor or the Course Co-ordinator as appropriate.

Mandatory Course Requirements

In order to meet the mandatory course requirements in MARK 302, you must:

- Achieve 50% of total marks,
- Submit all assignments, as outlined in the assessment section and
- Score over 40% in the final examination.

Communication of Additional Information

MARK 302 has its own coursepage where course information, lecture notes, links and extra readings will be posted. This course page can be accessed directly, using its url, or via the MARK 302 page on Blackboard.

ASSESSMENT

Case Studies

There will be one case study (on the wine industry) for which you will be required to hand in your written report as part of your course assessment. Other case studies will be used for discussion during tutorials and you will be required to display that you have read them. This will affect your final tutorial participation mark, but you will not be required to write anything.

Projects

Individual case study: Wine Industry

Due date	Marks
Friday 15 August	15

This is an individual exercise; you are free to discuss the case with fellow students but the written report must be your own work. Your tutor will give guidelines and discuss them with you. There will also be a note on the coursepage.

Group Research Project: International Marketing of Educational Services

Due date	Marks
Friday 3 October	35

Educational services is an industry of great significance to international marketing and to New Zealand. It is also one which was severely buffeted by the Asian financial crisis. It is in difficult times that an understanding of the market and its dynamics, and the development and implementation of appropriate strategies, becomes particularly important.

Explosive growth in East, Southeast and South Asia has resulted in a burgeoning middle class, which has embraced the traditional high regard given to education. New Zealand has in the last few years joined other countries, such as Australia, Britain and the United States, in attempting to tap into this market. The marketing and delivery of educational services is particularly interesting because it raises many political, social, ethical and cultural issues as well as the basic marketing and business ones. Students, whether they be from NZ or abroad, are also intimately involved as customers themselves.

Each group will act as 'a consultant' presenting a report to its client, Victoria International.

The Director of this 'client' organisation will give a presentation early in the course.

The research project has three components, which proceed in a logical order. Each component is worth the same number of marks but the size varies as we move from the more general background information to specific strategic recommendations.

1 Country-Market Environmental Analysis and Market Opportunity Assessment (15 Marks)

Each student in the research group will select a different country market. You should make your selection from countries which are currently or potentially of most importance to your client, although you also need to bear in mind the availability of information. You will be required to prepare a report covering the following factors:

- Cultural
- Demographic
- Social
- Economic
- Political
- Technological
- Competitive
- Foreign exchange
- Legal

You should remember that the purpose of the report is to provide information for marketing decision making by a NZ provider of education services so the report should be both relevant and comprehensive. Reproduction of generalised information is unlikely to be satisfactory and will not earn many marks.

You will write an individual report, and be individually assessed, but you should co-ordinate your research with other members of the group because the combined reports will form the basis for the next component of the research.

The report should be referenced and should make use of statistical data as appropriate. It may be supplemented by a documentary appendix. The word limit (excluding documentation) is 1500.

2. Swot Analysis (10 Marks)

The group will prepare a SWOT analysis for their client divided into the customary four parts: Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities and Threats. The environmental reports can be used as the basis for the sections on Opportunities and Threats although your analysis need not be confined to the countries chosen for the first component. The University requires students in general to be marked individually, so while the research should be conducted as a group, the written report should be divided equally among members, and the individual authors of each section identified. The aim of this project is to produce a clear and concise analysis and there will be a strict limit of 1000 words per person. Bullet points are acceptable.

3. Strategic Marketing Recommendations (10 Marks)

The group will prepare a brief set of strategic recommendations for the client. These recommendations should flow naturally from the two previous components. Issues to be covered include, but are not confined to:

- Country/market priorities
- Entry strategies
- Product development strategies
- Product delivery strategies
- Communication strategies

The word limit for this component is 500 words. This component is a group assessment but if any student feels that she or he is being disadvantaged by other members of the group this should be discussed with the tutor and remedial action will be taken.

Faculty of Commerce and Administration Offices

Railway West Wing (RWW) - FCA Student and Academic Services Office

The Faculty's Student and Academic Services Office is located on the ground and first floors of the Railway West Wing. The ground floor counter is the first point of contact for general enquiries and FCA forms. Use of Turnitin

Student work provided for assessment in this course may be checked for academic integrity by the electronic search engine <<http://www.turnitin.com>>. Turnitin is an on-line plagiarism prevention tool which identifies material that may have been copied from other sources including the Internet, books, journals, periodicals or the work of other students. Turnitin is used to assist academic staff in detecting misreferencing, misquotation, and the inclusion of unattributed material, which may be forms of cheating or plagiarism. At the discretion of the Head of School, handwritten work may be copy-typed by the School and subject to checking by Turnitin. You are strongly advised to check with your tutor or the course coordinator if you are uncertain about how to use and cite material from other sources. Turnitin will retain a copy of submitted materials on behalf of the University for detection of future plagiarism, but access to the full text of submissions will not be made available to any other party.

General University Policies and Statutes

Students should familiarise themselves with the University's policies and statutes, particularly the Assessment Statute, the Personal Courses of Study Statute, the Statute on Student Conduct and any statutes relating to the particular qualifications being studied; see the Victoria University Calendar or go to www.victoria.ac.nz/home/about/policy/students.aspx

Academic Integrity and Plagiarism

Academic integrity is about honesty – put simply it means no cheating. All members of the University community are responsible for upholding academic integrity, which means staff and students are expected to behave honestly, fairly and with respect for others at all times.

Plagiarism is a form of cheating which undermines academic integrity. The University defines plagiarism as follows:

The presentation of the work of another person or other persons as if it were one's own, whether intended or not. This includes published or unpublished work, material on the Internet and the work of other students or staff.

It is still plagiarism even if you re-structure the material or present it in your own style or words.

Note: including the work of others will not be considered plagiarism as long as the work is acknowledged by appropriate referencing.

Plagiarism is prohibited at Victoria and is not worth the risk. Any enrolled student found guilty of plagiarism will be subject to disciplinary procedures under the Statute on Student Conduct and may be penalised severely. Consequences of being found guilty of plagiarism can include:

- an oral or written warning
- cancellation of your mark for an assessment or a fail grade for the course
- suspension from the course or the University.

Find out more about plagiarism, and how to avoid it, on the University's website:
