

To analyse recent developments in risk management, with particular emphasis on financial risk management.

To recognise the potential of, as well as the limitations of, quantitative models and methodologies in dealing with financial risk.

Expected Workload

It is expected that the course will require approximately 300 hours of work.

Readings

Readings for the 400 level courses will be as designated in the relevant course outlines.

The student is responsible for obtaining suitable readings for the essay, in which task the coordinator will be available for assistance.

Assessment

- 40% Assessment of each of the two co-taught 400 level courses.
- 20% An essay, normally of between 2,000 and 3,000 words.

Students need to think out what they expect to achieve in essays, and the sources which they intend to use. All sources must be listed at the end of the essay, and normally all of those sources listed should be available to the markers should they ask for them. It is further expected that all readings listed in the references be cited in the essay; otherwise a note should be made. If the computer gives the number of words, it should be given at the beginning of the essay; and page numbers should be given. Essays should be submitted electronically unless permission is obtained from the coordinator. Further information as to essay requirements is available from the coordinator.

The essay and the preliminary report are expected to be written entirely by the student. In cases where there is any doubt in the marker's mind as to whether the report and the essay are entirely the student's own work, the coordinator reserves the right to withhold the grade for the course until the situation has been clarified.

Preliminary Report

The preliminary report is intended to convey to the coordinator the progress made to date towards the successful completion of the essay, and would normally include a general, if possibly vague, idea of where the essay may be heading, in the sense of what conclusions might eventually be drawn.

Mandatory course requirements

In order to pass the course, it is compulsory to submit both the preliminary report and the essay by the due dates.

Communication

Communication with the coordinator would normally be via email. It is recommended that the student and coordinator make contact every two or three weeks, although the frequency of contact will naturally depend on the individuals involved and whether or not progress towards the essay completion is satisfactory.

Academic Integrity and Plagiarism

Academic integrity is about honesty – put simply it means no cheating. All members of the University community are responsible for upholding academic integrity, which means staff and students are expected to behave honestly, fairly and with respect for others at all times.

Plagiarism is a form of cheating which undermines academic integrity. The University defines plagiarism as follows:

The presentation of the work of another person or other persons as if it were one's own, whether intended or not. This includes published or unpublished work, material on the Internet and the work of other student or staff.

It is still plagiarism even if you re-structure the material or present it in your own style or words.

Note: It is however, perfectly acceptable to include the work of others as long as that is acknowledged by appropriate referencing.

Plagiarism is prohibited at Victoria and is not worth the risk. Any enrolled student found guilty of plagiarism will be subject to disciplinary procedures under the Statute on Student Conduct and may be penalised severely. Consequences of being found guilty of plagiarism can include:

- an oral or written warning
- cancellation of your mark for an assessment or a fail grade for the course
- suspension from the course or the University.

Find out more about plagiarism, and how to avoid it, on the University's website at: <http://www.vuw.ac.nz/home/studying/plagiarism.html>.

Notice of Turnitin Use

Student work provided for assessment in this course may be checked for academic integrity by the electronic search engine <http://www.turnitin.com>. Turnitin is an on-line plagiarism prevention tool which identifies material that may have been copied from other sources including the Internet, books, journals, periodicals or the work of other students. Turnitin is used to assist academic staff in detecting misreferencing, misquotation, and the inclusion of unattributed material, which may be forms of cheating or plagiarism. At the discretion of the Head of School, handwritten work may be copy typed by the School and subject to checking by Turnitin. You are strongly advised to check with your tutor or the course coordinator if you are uncertain about how to use and cite material from other sources.
