Course Content

This paper introduces students to the law and institutions governing international business. It explores major principles, concepts, and rules governing the regulation of international trade in goods and services and how national and international trade law is integrated. It shows how the rules in multilateral and regional trade agreements increasingly affect New Zealand exporters, importers and producers of goods and services. It also looks at the law pertaining to individual business to business transactions.

Course Learning Objectives

Students passing this course should be able to:

- (a) Discuss and critique the process of making international trade law and explain its impact on exporters and importers of goods and services, especially in New Zealand, Australia, and other countries in the Asia-Pacific;
- (b) Explain the basic structure and rules of key selected international trade agreements, and discuss how they may be used to advance the interests of exporters and importers of goods and services, especially in New Zealand, Australia, and other countries in the Asia-Pacific;
- (c) Explain the implications of the law on international sales, including how individual transactions are linked to achieve a commercial objective;
- (d) Apply the law on international sales to individual fact situations.

Course Delivery

Formal instruction in this course will include 36 fifty-minute lectures over 12 weeks and 6 small group tutorials also of 50 minutes each.

You are strongly advised to attend and actively participate in all tutorials. You need to prepare answers to the tutorial questions beforehand so that you can knowledgeably contribute to the tutorial discussions.

Tutorial sign up should be done during the first week of term. The instructions for signing up are attached to page 7 of the course outline and will also be posted on the Announcements section of Course COML 306 on Blackboard. The completed tutorial lists will be posted on the notice board on the Mezzanine floor of Rutherford House.

Expected Workload

Students should expect to spend, on average, 12 hours per week on the course. How this time is made up will vary somewhat from week to week, but would typically comprise three hours at lectures and about four hours reading for lectures and revising lecture and tutorial notes, and four hours working on the essay and tutorial questions. There are also six hours of tutorials.

Unless you keep up with the course work, you are likely to face considerable problems catching up to be adequately prepared for the test and final exam.

Assessment Requirements

Assessment is as follows:

One 45-minute test	25%
One 1500-word essay	25%
One three-hour exam	50%
	100%

Note: Your assessed work may also be used for quality assurance purposes, such as to assess the level of achievement of learning objectives as required for accreditation and audit purposes. The findings may be used to inform changes aimed at improving the quality of FCA programmes. All material used for such processes will be treated as confidential, and the outcome will not affect your grade for the course.

If your performance is affected by sickness or other personal difficulties (e.g. bereavement of a close relative), you must contact the Course Coordinator as soon as possible. You must not delay this until the end of the course or when final results are published. In case of sickness, it is essential that you see a registered medical practitioner as soon as possible while you are sick and obtain a medical certificate that certifies that in the opinion of the doctor you are sick and the extent of disability suffered by you during the period of sickness. Medical certificates that simply state “student X visited me and told me he/she was sick last week”, or something to that effect, do not contain any professional assessment or opinion of the doctor and are of no value.

Test

The test will take place on Thursday 20 August in the normal lecture time. The test will be 45 minutes long and will start as close to 14.40 pm as possible. You are advised to try to arrive early so you will be seated in plenty of time. The test is OPEN book.

Essay

Essays must not exceed 1,500 words (including footnotes, which should be limited to referencing and citations and small asides, and bibliography).

Extensions will be granted only in exceptional cases and in the case of foreseeable events application will be expected well before the due day.

A hard copy of the essay is to be handed in by 12 pm on the due date, Tuesday 6 October by putting it into the appropriately labelled box on the Mezzanine floor, Rutherford House. WE WILL NOT ACCEPT AN EMAILED COPY OF YOUR ESSAY SENT TO THE LECTURERS OR THE COURSE ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT. You must provide a hard copy of your essay and hand it in to the labelled box on the due date.

Penalties

A penalty of 5 marks out of 100 per day will be applied to late essays if an extension application is not accepted. The word limit must be adhered to. Essays will only be marked on the first 1,500 words.

Examinations

The final examination for this course will be scheduled at some time during the period from Tuesday 27 October to Saturday 14 November 2009 (inclusive).
