Trimester Dates

Teaching Period: Monday 12 July to Friday 15 October 2010

Mid-trimester Break: Monday 23 August to Sunday 5 September 2010

Study Period: Monday 18 October to Thursday 21 October 2010

Examination Period: Friday 22 October to Saturday 13 November 2010 (inclusive)

Note: Students who enrol in courses with examinations are obliged to attend an examination at the University at any time during the formal examination period.

Class Times and Room Numbers

Lectures:

Monday, 4.10 – 5.00pm, Easterfield LT206
Wednesday, 4.10 – 5.00pm, Easterfield LT206

Tutorials:

Monday, 3.10 – 4.00pm, HU324
Wednesday, 3.10 – 4.00pm, HU324
Wednesday, 5.10 – 6.00pm, HU324

Tutorials

Attendance at no fewer than eight of the scheduled tutorial sessions is part of the Mandatory Course Requirements. Students are strongly encouraged to attend all tutorials. If students are, for very good reason, unable to attend their regular tutorial, they may attend another one in the same week. They should ensure that both their regular tutor and the tutor at the substitute tutorial have recorded their attendance.

Tutorial groups will be arranged in the first lecture. Depending on the class size, not all of the tutorials listed above may be offered. There is a maximum of 16 students per tutorial class so if the list is full, please do not add your name to the bottom. Confirmation of your tutorial group will be posted on Blackboard. If you have any serious problems about the allocations please contact Dr Wilson.

The tutorial topic schedule and questions will be posted on Blackboard in the first week.

Withdrawal from Courses:

Your fees will be refunded if you withdraw from this course on or before 23 July 2010.

The last date for withdrawal from this course is the three-quarter point of the teaching period, i.e. Friday 24 September. After that date, permission to withdraw requires the permission of the Associate Dean (Students) as set out in section 8 of the Personal Courses of Study Statute <http://policy.vuw.ac.nz/Amphora!~policy.vuw.ac.nz~POLICY~000000001743.pdf>

To apply for permission, fill in the Late Withdrawal form available from either of our Student Customer Service Desks.

Course Content

The course is in two parts, separated by the mid-trimester break (23 August to 5 September).

Part 1

The first part examines the framework of the New Zealand system of government, including the constitutional and parliamentary frameworks, and the institutional makeup of the contemporary state sector.

The focus then shifts to an examination of theories and models of bureaucratic reform and an analysis of the historical evolution of the state sector during the twentieth century.

We then proceed to an exploration of the changes to the state sector introduced by the fourth Labour Government in the late 1980s (including the ideas and theories that informed those changes), and the principal institutional and machinery of government reforms that resulted (including the State-Owned Enterprises Act 1986, the State Sector Act 1988 and the Public Finance Act 1989).

Following an assessment of the changes of the late 1980s the focus shifts to more recent reforms and in particular those in the period following the formation of the Labour-led Coalition Government in 1999. The first part of the course will conclude by reflecting on some of the key challenges facing the New Zealand system of public administration in 2009 and in the immediate future.

The first part of the course will be assessed primarily through a written assignment due immediately before the mid-trimester break.

Part 2

The second part of the course examines a number of key topics in public administration and policy, with a particular focus on the institutional context for policymaking, implementation, evaluation and review. Topics will include the tension between political and bureaucratic imperatives and the ‘risks’ associated with politicisation some illustrative case studies of institutions and the policy process; ethics and ethos; and consideration of the challenges of biculturalism and cultural pluralism.

The course will close by examining the distinction between government and governance, and the impact of different structures and processes of governance on institutions and the policy process.

This is a course which seeks to engage with contemporary, real-time events in the world of politics and public administration. Informally we will be referring to those events on an ongoing basis. If they are sufficiently significant there is sufficient flexibility in the structure of the course to focus on them in some detail.

The second part of the course will be assessed through a second written assignment due towards the end of the trimester, and through a final examination.

See the lecture schedule at the end of this outline for lecture topics and readings.

Course Learning Objectives

This course provides an introduction to the field of public administration and management in New Zealand, focusing on the nature and role of the institutions that comprise the executive branch of government. A broad definition of public administration is the study of “the executive branch of government including all matters of concern within itself, all matters which impinge on it and all matters on which it impinges” R. Adie and P. Thomas (1982), Canadian Public Administration, PrenticeHall Canada Inc., p. 2 (emphasis added.)

Course Objectives: By the end of this course, students should be able to:		Major Attributes
1	Describe the main features of the New Zealand system of government and explain the specific role and contribution of the state sector.	MA 2
2	Describe the constitutional and historical context for contemporary public administration in New Zealand.	MA 13
3	Summarise the principal theoretical approaches to the role of the state, and show how these relate to the New Zealand system of government.	MA 4
4	Describe the influence of theory and ideology in the context of New Zealand’s state sector reforms in the period from 1985 to 1995.	MA 2
5	Compare and contrast the trajectory of state sector reform in the 1980 and 1990s with contemporary developments in state sector and public administration reform.	MA 2
6	Illustrate the importance of political neutrality in the context of New Zealand public administration and assess challenges to political neutrality (politicisation).	MA 2

Course Objectives: By the end of this course, students should be able to:		Major Attributes
7	Summarise the relevance of ethics in the context of both the institutional and personal dimensions of public administration and public service.	MA 12
8	Explain the relevance of the Treaty of Waitangi and the significance of biculturalism and multiculturalism for public administration in New Zealand.	MA 13

Major Attributes: PUBL majors will be able to
MA1	Judge the defining features of good policy analysis and advice and appraise how they are best produced
MA2	Demonstrate an understanding of the influence of political ideas and philosophies, and of constitutional and political institutions on public policy
MA3	Demonstrate an understanding of the contribution of quantitative and qualitative methods in policy analysis
MA4	Identify the nature and respective roles of state and civil society in the development, implementation and evaluation of public policy, and demonstrate an understanding of the distinction between government and governance
MA5	Appraise different disciplinary contributions to the development, implementation and evaluation of public policy
MA6	Judge the relevance and importance of evidence in policymaking
MA7	Apply the comparative method to policy analysis, and identify insights that might be drawn from other policy jurisdictions
MA8	Judge and articulate the relevant criteria that might be used in assessing the advantages and disadvantages of particular policy options
MA9	Analyse complex policy issues from multiple perspectives and identify opportunities for innovation
MA10	Express ideas succinctly and persuasively both in written form and orally
MA11	Construct and articulate rationales for public policy intervention
MA12	Demonstrate an understanding of the significance of ethics and accountability in the study and practice of public policy
MA13	Interpret the significance of the Treaty of Waitangi (Te Tiriti o Waitangi) in the study and practice of public policy in New Zealand

Course Delivery

The course will be delivered through two 50-minute lectures and one 50-minute tutorial per week. The tutorials are based on the lecture material and take the format of general discussion structured around several set questions. Students are expected to be able to answer the tutorial questions based on the assigned reading and to participate in the general discussion.

Expected Workload

Students are expected to undertake on average about three or four hours of self-directed study per week for each contact hour. Assuming three contact hours for a course – as is the case with this one – between nine and 12 hours per week of additional study should be undertaken for the course.

Readings

The textbook for this course is: Richard Shaw and Chris Eichbaum, 2008, Public Policy in New Zealand: Institutions, Processes and Outcomes, 2nd ed., Auckland: Pearson/Prentice Hall. The second edition includes an extra chapter – on Governance – and some case study and other information has been updated from the first (2005) edition.

Students will NOT be required to purchase a set of course readings from the Student Notes Distribution Centre. The textbook will be supplemented by readings (see lecture schedule) that will be posted to Blackboard from time to time.

Students wishing to undertake general reading before or during the course may find the following of assistance:

Jonathan Boston, John Martin, June Pallot and Pat Walsh, 1996, Public Management: The New Zealand Model, Oxford University Press, Auckland.

Raymond Miller (ed.), 2010, New Zealand Government and Politics (5th Edition), Oxford University Press, Auckland.

Geoffrey Palmer and Matthew Palmer, 2004, Bridled Power: New Zealand's Constitution and Government (Fourth Edition), Oxford University Press, Auckland.

Richard Mulgan and Peter Aimer, 2004, Politics in New Zealand (Fourth Edition), Auckland University Press, Auckland.

Graham Scott, 2001, Public Management in New Zealand: Lessons and Challenges, NZ Business Roundtable, Wellington.

Assessment Requirements

ASSESSMENT	DUE DATE	WEIGHT
1 st Essay (2,000 words)	Friday 20 August	25%
2 nd Essay (2,000 words)	Friday 8 October	25%
Final exam	(exam timetable tba)	50%

Essay topics are at the end of this course outline and will be discussed in tutorials.

Assignments

Assignments should be placed in the secure box at School of Government reception (8th floor Rutherford House) during the office hours, which are 8.30 am – 5.00 pm. The assignment box is cleared daily, and assignments will be date stamped. Students should keep a secure copy of all assignments (i.e. hard copy and e-file).

Please do not try to submit your essays in any other way. They will not be accepted.

Note: Your assessed work may also be used for quality assurance purposes, such as to assess the level of achievement of learning objectives as required for accreditation and audit purposes. The findings may be used to inform changes aimed at improving the quality of FCA programmes. All material used for such processes will be treated as confidential, and the outcome will not affect your grade for the course.

Examinations

Advice on the structure and content of the examination will be provided towards the end of the trimester. It is probable that the 2010 examination will be similar in structure to that used in previous years.

Students who enrol in courses with examinations are obliged to attend an examination at the University at any time during the formal examination period.

The final examination for this course will be scheduled at some time during the period from Friday 22 October to Saturday 13 November 2010 (inclusive).

Extensions and Penalties

- ▶ Extensions beyond the due dates for essays will be granted only to those who meet the University's aegrotat rules, i.e. a medical certificate, personal bereavement, or critical personal circumstances beyond your control. If you are having troubles let your tutor or Dr Wilson know – confidentiality is guaranteed.
- ▶ NB that requests for extensions must be received before the due date of an assignment.
- ▶ Late essays must be submitted to School of Government reception.
- ▶ Essays not handed in by the due date or by the date of an agreed extension may have their mark out of 100 reduced by 5 percentage points for each day the essay was late.

- ▶ Essays handed in more than 5 days late after due date or after the date of an extension may not be accepted.

Mandatory Course Requirements

1. Attendance at no fewer than eight of the scheduled tutorial sessions (you are strongly encouraged to attend all tutorials).
2. Submission of all written assignments, by the due dates.
3. Sit the course examination.

Students who fail to satisfy the mandatory requirements for passing this course, other than the requirement to obtain a C grade overall, will not receive a graded result, and their records will show a “K” (fail due to not satisfying mandatory course requirements, even though the student's course requirements reached the level specified for a pass).

To pass PUBL 202/POLS 235 a student must meet the mandatory requirements and achieve at least a total of 50% over all the assessment.

Class Representative

A class representative will be elected in the first class, and that person's name and contact details will be available to VUWSA, the Course Coordinator and the class. The class representative provides a communication channel to liaise with the Course Coordinator on behalf of students.

Communication of Additional Information

Notices and course materials relating to lectures, tutorials – including PowerPoint slides used in lectures – will be posted on the Blackboard website. Only students who are registered for PUBL 202/POLS 235 will have access.

Academic Integrity, Plagiarism, and the use of Turnitin

Plagiarism is presenting someone else's work as if it were your own, whether you mean to or not.

‘Someone else's work’ means anything that is not your own idea. Even if it is presented in your own style, you must still acknowledge your sources fully and appropriately. This includes:

- material from books, journals or any other printed source
- the work of other students or staff
- information from the Internet
- software programs and other electronic material
- designs and ideas
- the organisation or structuring of any such material.

Acknowledgement is required for all material in any work submitted for assessment unless it is a ‘fact’ that is well-known in the context (such as “Wellington is the capital of New Zealand”) or your own ideas in your own words. Everything else that derives from one of the sources above and ends up in your work – whether it is directly quoted, paraphrased, or put into a table or figure, needs to be acknowledged with a reference that is sufficient for your reader to locate the original source.

Plagiarism undermines academic integrity simply because it is a form of lying, stealing and mistreating others. Plagiarism involves stealing other people’s intellectual property and lying about whose work it is. This is why plagiarism is prohibited at Victoria.

If you are found guilty of plagiarism, you may be penalised under the Statute on Student Conduct. You should be aware of your obligations under the Statute, which can be downloaded from the policy website (www.victoria.ac.nz/home/about/policy/students.aspx). You could fail your course or even be suspended from the University.

Plagiarism is easy to detect. The University has systems in place to identify it.

Student work provided for assessment in this course may be checked for academic integrity by the electronic search engine <http://www.turnitin.com>. Turnitin is an on-line plagiarism prevention tool which compares submitted work with a very large database of existing material. At the discretion of the Head of School, handwritten work may be copy-typed by the School and subject to checking by Turnitin. Turnitin will retain a copy of submitted materials on behalf of the University for detection of future plagiarism, but access to the full text of submissions will not be made available to any other party.

There is guidance available to students on how to avoid plagiarism by way of sound study skills and the proper and consistent use of a recognised referencing system. This guidance may be found at the following website <http://www.victoria.ac.nz/home/study/plagiarism.aspx>

If in doubt seek the advice of your course coordinator.

Plagiarism is simply not worth the risk.

PUBL 202 / POLS 235 – First Essay Questions – 2010

(2000 words; 25% of final mark -- due 5pm, Friday 20 August)

1. Outline the characteristic features of the “Westminster model” in terms of the institutions, conventions, beliefs and practices applying to the public service. To what extent does New Zealand differ from other nations in the Westminster tradition, and what do you consider to be the main strengths and weaknesses of New Zealand’s constitutional arrangements?
2. Richard Mulgan has described New Zealand in the past as “an elective dictatorship”. What does he mean, and to what extent do the institutional reforms implemented since 1984 suggest his conclusion needs revising?
3. Contrast the neo-liberal view of the state with ONE of the following alternative theoretical accounts: pluralist, feminist, ‘green’, or indigenous perspectives. With reference to the public service, discuss the extent to which such alternatives have been adopted and their outcomes.
4. The 2001 Advisory Group on the Review of the Centre concluded that “the public management system as it stands today provides a reasonable platform to work from but some significant shifts in emphasis are needed to better respond to the needs of the future.” What do you consider to be the main strengths and weaknesses of the New Zealand state sector reforms of the 1980s and early 1990s (i.e. reforms initiated over the period from 1984 – 1994), and to what extent have the weaknesses that you identify (if any) been addressed in the period since 1994? Use examples to illustrate your argument.
5. In a recent (2009) speech the Secretary of the Treasury Mr Whitehead defined a more managerial approach for chief executives in the public sector as being “clear about goals, thinking about the customer, organising to deliver the right outcomes, getting the best price, producing the right quantities and standards and being explicit about the trade-offs involved in decisions.” Explain why you agree or disagree that a more managerial approach is now required in the public sector. Use examples to illustrate your answer.
