The application form is available from either of the Faculty's Student Customer Service Desks or online.

Course Description

Critical success factors in the Master of Information Management programme include the ability to think critically and creatively and to communicate that thinking both orally and in written English. This course aims to develop and enhance student skills in critical and creative thinking. Students will develop their written and oral communication capability appropriate for an academic environment. They will demonstrate this by their ability to convey key information management and

Course Delivery

The course will be delivered in the form of eight lecture/seminars taught within three blocks. There will be class discussions during the lectures based on the Session Preparation Assignments (SPAs) as indicated in the planned lecture schedule below.

Materials and Equipment

Students are required to bring a laptop computer with WiFi connectivity to the first teaching block (March 13-14) so as to engage in exercises involving the Victoria University academic databases.

Expected Workload

This is a 15 point course. One point should equate to 10 hours of work, which means a total of 150 hours for a 15-point course. With 8 three-hour classes a total of 24 hours class time will be required. Time management for the remaining 126 hours will be required. This should take into account the block teaching mode (reflecting concentrated periods of work) and the assessment due dates. It is likely that time will be required to work on assessment deliverables over the break. Preparation time for assessment items is expected to be as given in the table below, although allowance should be made for individual variations:-

Readings

There is no set textbook for this course. Readings to be used as a basis for class presentation are as follows:-

- Group 1 Levine, L.E., Waite, B.M. and Bowman, L.L. (2012). Mobile media use, multitasking and distractibility, International journal of cyber behaviour, psychology and learning, 2(3), 15-29.
- Group 2 Cazier, J.A., Shao, B.B.M. and St Louis, R.D. (2007). Sharing information and building trust through value congruence, Information systems frontiers, 9, 515-529.
- Group 3– Johnston, K., Tanner, M., Lalla, N. and Kawalski, D. (2011). Social capital: the benefit of Facebook 'friends', Behaviour & Information Technology, 32(1), 24-36.
- Group 4 Hoofnagel, C., King, J., Li, S. and Turow, J. (2010). How different are young adults from older adults when it comes to information privacy attitudes & policies? Young adults and privacy. (Available at SSRN 1589864 from http://ssrn.com/abstract=1589864)

Other more contemporary readings will be obtained from Internet and other academic sources. Some will be handed out in class.

Group Work

Some group work will occur in class. The Class presentation will be based on work in small groups and will contribute to 15% of course grades.

Course Learning Objectives (CLO)

Students who pass this course should be able to:

- 1. Demonstrate the ability to think critically and creatively and present their ideas to others in a persuasive and logical manner.
- 2. Demonstrate the ability to research and write on a chosen topic according to standard academic writing and bibliographic conventions.
- 3. Demonstrate the ability to make a logical and considered oral presentation using available conventional audio-visual technologies appropriate for a post-graduate information management programme.

The Assessment Handbook will apply to all VUW courses: see http://www.victoria.ac.nz/documents/policy/staff-policy/assessment-handbook.pdf.

If you cannot complete an assignment or sit a test or examination, refer to www.victoria.ac.nz/home/study/exams-and-assessments/aegrotat

Penalties

All assignment deadlines are specified and will be assessed by the date and time recorded on the email to which the assignment was attached when submitted to the Course Convenor. Because meeting deadlines is a critical factor in the assessment of tenders, job applications and other business negotiations, applications for extensions of time for the completion of assignments will not be entertained. There will be a 5% per day penalty for late delivery of assignments to a maximum of 25%. Students submitting their assignment late will be considered to have made an executive decision to do so and accept the penalty consequences. Assignments delivered more than 5 days late will not be marked.

Use of Turnitin

Student work provided for assessment in this course may be checked for academic integrity by the electronic search engine http://www.turnitin.com. Turnitin is an on-line plagiarism prevention tool which compares submitted work with a very large database of existing material. At the discretion of the Head of School, handwritten work may be copy-typed by the School and submitted to Turnitin. A copy of submitted materials will be retained on behalf of the University for detection of future plagiarism, but access to the full text of submissions will not be made available to any other party.

Mandatory Course Requirements

In addition to obtaining an overall course mark of 50 or better, students must obtain a minimum grade of 45% for any assessment item.

Communication of Additional Information

Additional course information will be conveyed to students in class, by email or by posting the information to the course Blackboard site. Please monitor your email and the course Blackboard regularly.

Student feedback

Student feedback on University courses may be found at www.cad.vuw.ac.nz/feedback/feedback_display.php

Link to general information

For general information about course-related matters, go to http://www.victoria.ac.nz/vbs/studenthelp/general-course-information

Note to Students

Your assessed work may also be used for quality assurance purposes, such as to assess the level of achievement of learning objectives as required for accreditation and academic audit. The findings may be used to inform changes aimed at improving the quality of VBS programmes. All material used for such processes will be treated as confidential, and the outcome will not affect your grade for the course.

MMIM 501 - Critical Thinking and Communication in Information Management

Assessment 1 - Session Preparation Assignments - SPAs

(Faculty Learning Outcomes on creative and critical thinking and Course Learning Outcome 2)

In the MIM programme students will be expected to read and discuss a range of writings on a wide spectrum of academic topics. To introduce you to this process, and to assist you in approaching the task critically, eight Session Preparation Assignments – SPAs – have been scheduled during the course. These SPAs are designed to give students practice with skills taught in class or the identification of issues of relevance to the topic under consideration. The readings for each SPA will be handed out in class, posted to the BlackBoard website and/or sent to you by email. Students will be expected to complete the SPA and be prepared to discuss the issues presented. The Marking rubric is shown below:-

MMIM 501 - Critical Thinking and Communication in Information Management

Assessment 2 – Written essay assignment

(Faculty Learning Outcomes on writing and critical thinking and communication Course Learning Outcomes 1 and 2)

- 1. Purpose of this assignment is to provide students with an opportunity to practice the skills learned in class.
- 2. The assignment is also intended to provide students with the opportunity to analyze academic journal articles and to use the APA bibliographic convention.

Building on the skills developed and assessed in class and with the SPAs, you will now prepare a literature review based on the contents of at least 15 peer-reviewed journal articles on the topic of "Critical success factors in.....".

Each student is free to identify the topic qualifier they wish to research and discuss. Qualifiers may include one or more of the following, but your choice should be agreed by email with the Course coordinator (Jocelyn Cranefield) before you start work on it:-

1.	Biometric identification	2.	Government online service delivery
3.	Information security	4.	Information systems procurement

The literature review is an academic device intended to identify the boundaries of contemporary knowledge based on what has been published in the available literature. It forms the basis of most assignments that you will be expected to submit in most of the courses in the MIM. Your literature review will identify what has been published, and therefore what we know about your chosen topic. You should argue what we can deduce logically from what is known. Part of the intention is for you to identify any gaps in our knowledge and ways in which one might investigate those gaps and enhance our knowledge and understanding. You are expected to be critical about what you read and to compare your readings with one another to establish the basis for your views and your argument.

The Marking Schedule for this assessment will be the Assignment marking guide shown below, and marks will be allocated as shown.

You should submit a hard copy of your essay in class on 6th May 2015 according to the format and structure discussed in class. An electronic copy may precede the paper copy but should be delivered as an email file attachment not later than midnight on the 5th May 2015.

How marks will be allocated

For each paper a paper evaluation form, as shown in the previous section of this document, will be completed. The marks will be allocated as set out in the following marking guide with each subitem counting 5 marks. The description is that of an excellent piece of work.

	Depth and breadth of treatment 25
Coverage of	The coverage of the subject should be sufficient to enable the reader to achieve clarity and subject	understanding of all the discussion and to be able to follow all the logic of the discussion to the conclusions. The paper should demonstrate a good knowledge and understanding of the subject.
Conciseness	The discussion should be concise and there should be no unnecessary discussion or excessive verbiage. The writing should be to the point and not be rambling or vague. The author should aim for economy of style and avoid words and phrases that add nothing to the discussion.
Focus of topic	The author or authors should keep to the topic throughout the paper and maintain the readers' interest. There should be no redundancy, repetition or presentation of irrelevant material. The focus is dictated by the title and the purpose of the paper as stated in the introduction.
Contribution	The paper should be meaningful and useful to those interested in the topic area.
	Analytical handling 15
Objectivity	There should be no evidence of any introduction of personal bias or the presentation of unsupported personal opinions. Appropriate support or evidence should be provided for all the assertions, arguments and conclusions made in the paper. Arguments and conclusions should show a convincing application of logic. Evidence for statements should be provided in the form of good references (sources).
Logical	The planning of the paper, its execution and the logical argument should be such that there development	a clear thread from the stated aim through the discussion to the conclusions. The overall
•	argument or discussion should be developed in a logical and rational way.
Integration	Extraction, integration and summarising of key ideas and themes.
 	Structure 25
Quality of layout	The spacing of text, numbering of pages, use of headings, cover page, use of figures and tables, etc. should all be excellent.
Introduction	The introduction should commence with a succinct, focused and relevant contextualisation and conclude with a clear statement of the purpose and details of the scope of the report.
Conclusion	The conclusion should present the key findings, conclusions and implications. These should clearly and succinctly relate to the aim or purpose of the research and draw from the arguments presented.

MMIM 501 - Critical Thinking and Communication in Information Management

Class Presentation Assignment – Current issues in Information Management

(Faculty Learning Outcomes on Oral communication. Course Learning Outcomes 3)

Educational research has demonstrated clearly that students learn best through a variety of assignments, especially in association with peers. You all have rich experience and therefore much to share. Accordingly, to enhance learning through peer group involvement, there will be four student presentations based on a peer-reviewed research publication. These are:-

Group	Reading
1	Mobile Media Use, Multitasking and Distractibility
2	Sharing information and building trust through value congruence
3	Social capital: the benefit of Facebook 'friends
4	Information privacy attitudes and youth

Group	Members tbc

Each group will need to

- 1. Read the document and together identify and agree:
 - a. The main argument
 - b. Why this is important
 - c. What the implications might be in future, especially for New Zealand
- 2. Do a literature search for approximately 5 peer-reviewed research articles that will inform you further about the topic including any research that led the authors to think that way
- 3. Based in the information you have found, prepare a class presentation of no more than 15 minutes that involves all members of your group.
- 4. Immediately after the class presentation preside over an in-class discussion around that topic

The date of your class presentations will be advised in the first teaching block. The presentations will be made in class on dates to be finalized once class numbers are known. Evaluations will be done according to a rubric to be handed out in class so that you all participate and are all involved in the assessment of one another. This also makes you sensitive to the requirements of good public presentation delivery.
