Tutorial venue[s]: tba in first week of class and posted on Blackboard

Course Delivery

The course has two lectures and one tutorial per week. The lectures are taught by Dr Kate Schick and take place on Tuesdays and Fridays at 13.10 at KKLT301. The times and locations of the tutorial groups will be finalised in the first week of the course and begin in Week 2. Sign-up sheets for tutorial groups will be on Blackboard in the first week of term.

The examination period for this course is from Friday 12 June to Wednesday 1 July 2009.

Communication of additional information

Information on any changes will be communicated via Blackboard.

Course content

This module is an introduction to the study of conflict. It examines how and why conflict emerges in the international system and explores different approaches to its mitigation and resolution. Students will learn to discern varying forms of conflict and will employ theoretical perspectives on conflict analysis to analyse key case studies.

Learning objectives

Students passing the paper will:

1. Have a good understanding of different theoretical perspectives on conflict and how these affect approaches to conflict in world politics
2. Have a good understanding of debates about the causes of conflict
3. Be aware of the different processes employed to manage and/or resolve conflict
4. Be able to write a structured and theoretically-informed essay about debates in contemporary conflict

Graduate attributes

As with all POLS and INTP courses, learning objectives of this course contribute to the attainment of specific attributes in the areas of critical thinking, creative thinking, communication and leadership. Please consult the Programme Prospectus 2009, p. 10, for more details or on our website <http://www.victoria.ac.nz/pols/> .

Expected workload

In accordance with Faculty Guidelines, this course has been constructed on the assumption that students will devote 15 hours per week for reading, writing, and researching material for this course. This includes 2 hours of lectures per week.

Group work

There is no assessed group work as a part of this course, although tutorials will involve group discussions.

Reading

Essential texts:

The essential text for this course is:

Oliver Ramsbotham and Tom Woodhouse and Hugh Miall, Contemporary Conflict Resolution, 3rd Edition (Cambridge: Polity Press, 2006).

There is also a Book of Reading that contains required readings.

Textbooks can be purchased from Vicbooks located on the top floor of the Student Union Building, Kelburn Campus. Books of Reading are distributed from the Student Notes Shop on the ground floor of the Student Union Building.

Customers can order textbooks and student notes online at www.vicbooks.co.nz or can email an order or enquiry to enquiries@vicbooks.co.nz. Books can be couriered to customers or they can be picked up from the shop the day after placing an order online.

Opening hours are 8.00 am – 6.00 pm, Monday – Friday during term time (closing at 5.00 pm in the holidays)

10.00 am – 1.00 pm Saturdays.

Phone: 463 5515

Assessment requirements

Two essays (25% each) and a final exam (50%) are used for assessment.

Essay topics are attached at the end of this course outline.

- Essay 1 due 9 April 2008
- Essay 2 due 22 May 2008

Essays should be 1800 – 2200 words long and follow all scholarly conventions, especially those relating to citations. Extensions will be granted only by the course coordinator and only in rare circumstances (such as illness verified by a medical certificate or bereavement). Essay two, especially, is not due until the end of teaching and if not received in good time will not be able to be marked in time for final grading.

The essays assess student knowledge of the course material (learning objectives 1, 2, 3) and student ability to write a clear, structured, and theoretically-informed essay about conflict in world politics (learning objective 4).

The final examination will be a 3-hour exam scheduled in the examination period Friday 12 June -1 July 2009.

Return of assignments

Essays will be returned during tutorials, within three weeks of the due date. If students fail to attend the relevant tutorial, they may pick up their essay from the Political Science and IR Office on the fifth floor between the hours of 2 and 3pm on Monday to Friday.

Penalties

Students will be penalised for late submission of essays – a deduction of 5% for the first day late, and 2% per day thereafter, up to a maximum of 8 days. Work that is more than 8 days late can be accepted for mandatory course requirements but will not be marked. However, penalties may be waived if there are valid grounds (for example, illness [presentation of a medical certificate will be necessary] or similar other contingencies). In all such cases, prior information will be necessary. These are standard Political Science and International Relations penalties.

Mandatory course requirements

To gain a pass in this course each student must submit the written work specified for this course, on or by the specified dates (subject to such provisions as are stated for late submission of work) and sit the final examination.

Statement on the use of Turnitin

Student work provided for assessment in this course may be checked for academic integrity by the electronic search engine <http://www.turnitin.com>. Turnitin is an online plagiarism prevention tool which compares submitted work with a very large database of existing material. At the discretion of the Head of School, handwritten work may be copy-typed by the School and subject to checking by Turnitin. Turnitin will retain a copy of submitted material on behalf of the University for detection of future plagiarism, but access to the full text of submissions is not made available to any other party.

Academic integrity and plagiarism

Academic integrity means that university staff and students, in their teaching and learning are expected to treat others honestly, fairly and with respect at all times. It is not acceptable to mistreat academic, intellectual or creative work that has been done by other people by representing it as your own original work.

Academic integrity is important because it is the core value on which the University's learning, teaching and research activities are based. Victoria University's reputation for academic integrity adds value to your qualification.

The University defines plagiarism as presenting someone else's work as if it were your own, whether you mean to or not. 'Someone else's work' means anything that is not your own idea.

Even if it is presented in your own style, you must acknowledge your sources fully and appropriately. This includes:

- Material from books, journals or any other printed source
- The work of other students or staff
- Information from the internet
- Software programs and other electronic material
- Designs and ideas
- The organisation or structuring of any such material

Find out more about plagiarism, how to avoid it and penalties, on the University's website: <http://www.victoria.ac.nz/home/study/plagiarism.aspx>

GENERAL UNIVERSITY POLICIES AND STATUTES

Students should familiarise themselves with the University's policies and statutes, particularly the Assessment Statute, the Personal Courses of Study Statute, the Statute on Student Conduct and any statutes relating to the particular qualifications being studied; see the Victoria University Calendar or go to the Academic Policy and Student Policy sections on:

<http://www.victoria.ac.nz/home/about/policy>

This website also provides information for students in a number of areas including Academic Grievances, Student and Staff conduct, Meeting the needs of students with impairments, and student support/VUWSA student advocates.

Conflict Analysis Tutorials and Readings

Please note that the tutorials each week will correspond to the lectures of the previous week (i.e. the first tutorial will be held in week 2, but will correspond to the content of week 1)

Week 1: Key concepts

Why do we study conflict?

How can conflict be defined and understood?

How might theory help us to understand conflict?

How do realist, liberal, and critical approaches to conflict differ?

Why does this matter?

Required reading:

Chris Brown, Understanding International Relations: Chapter 3: International Relations

Theory Today, pp. 40-62 (available online – go to <http://www.vuw.ebib.com.helicon.vuw.ac.nz/EBLWeb/patron/> and type in book title where prompted)

Additional reading:

Oliver Ramsbotham and Tom Woodhouse and Hugh Miall, Contemporary Conflict Resolution, 3rd Edition (Cambridge: Polity Press, 2006), Chapters 1 and 4.

Scott Burchill, et al, eds., Theories of International Relations, 2nd ed. (Palgrave Macmillian, 2001).

Robert W. Cox, 'Social Forces, States and World Orders: Beyond International Relations Theory', Millennium: Journal of International Studies, Vol. 10, No. 2 (1981), pp. 126-155.

Week 2: Realism and war

What is 'war'? What forms does it take, and what and whose purposes does it serve?

What are the classical realist and structural realist views of the sources of conflict and war?

Have they strategies for its avoidance?

Required reading:

Chris Brown, Understanding International Relations, Chapter 6: The Balance of Power and War (97-115) (available online – go to <http://www.vuw.ebib.com.helicon.vuw.ac.nz/EBLWeb/patron/> and type in book title where prompted)

Additional reading:

John Mearsheimer, The Tragedy of Great Power Politics (WW Norton, 2001)

Robert Keohane, ed., Neorealism and its Critics (New York: Columbia University Press, 1986)

Week 3: Liberalism and peace: the democratic peace

What is liberalism in international relations?

What is utopianism? What is idealism? Are these the same as liberalism?

What is the democratic peace thesis? How is this an example of liberalism?

What is the United Nations' role in promoting international peace?

Is the UN too altruistic to function in world politics?

Required reading:

Chris Brown, Understanding International Relations Chapter 7: Global Governance, pp. 116-140 (available online – go to <http://www.vuw.eblib.com.helicon.vuw.ac.nz/EBLWeb/patron/> and type in book title where prompted)

Week 4: From old wars to new wars

What is the 'new wars' thesis?

How do 'new wars' differ from 'old wars'?
Are they really 'new'?
Is war becoming post-modern or pre-modern?

Required reading:

Stathis Kalyvas, "'New' and 'Old' Civil Wars. A Valid Distinction?" World Politics 54 (2001), pp. 99-118.

Robert Kaplan, 'The Coming Anarchy', Atlantic Monthly (February 1994),

Edward Newman, 'The New Wars Debate: A Historical Perspective is needed', Security Dialogue, Vol. 35 (2004), pp. 173-189.

Week 5: Identity and violence

What role does ethnicity play in contemporary conflict?

What is its role in international conflict?

What is its role in domestic conflict?

Does nationalism have primordial roots or is it constructed?

Required reading:

John Mueller. 'The Banality of "Ethnic War"', International Security, Vol. 25, No. 1 (Summer 2000), pp. 42-70.

Peter Waldmann, 'Revenge Without Rules: On the Renaissance of an Archaic Motif of Violence', Studies in Conflict and Terrorism, Vol. 24 (2001), pp. 435-450.

Connor Cruise O'Brien. 'The Wrath of Ages: Nationalism's Primordial Roots.' Foreign Affairs, Vol. 72, No. 5 (1993), pp. 142-149.

Week 6: Economic conflict

Can imperialism cause 'old wars'?

Does imperialism play a part in contemporary conflict?

How well does the greed thesis explain new wars?

Do resources fuel civil wars?

Can resources promote peace?

Required reading:

Randall Schweller, Realism and The Present Great-Power System: Growth and Positional Competition Over Scarce Resources, in Ethan B. Kapstein and Michael Mastanduno, (eds.) Unipolar Politics: Realism and State Strategies After the Cold War (New York: Columbia University Press, 1999).

Michael Ross, "How Does Natural Resource Wealth Influence Civil War?" International Organization (2004), pp. 35-67.

Week 7: Asymmetric conflict and Terrorism

Why do people employ terrorism as a tactic?

Is it different to other forms of political violence and, if so, how?

How have critical scholars responded to 9/11 and the war on terror?

Required reading:

Contemporary Conflict Resolution, Chapter 3

Roundtable: September 11 and its Aftermath: voices from Australia, Canada, and Africa, Signs: Journal of Women in Culture and Society, Vol. 29, No. 2 (2003), pp. 576-578; pp. 579-582.

Week 8: Responding to conflict: Conflict Management and Conflict Resolution

What were the fundamental laws of traditional peacekeeping during the cold war?
Why did peacekeeping play such an important role during this era?
What is a 'post-Westphalian' approach to peace operations?
What is the purpose of peace operations?

Required reading:

Oliver Ramsbotham and Tom Woodhouse and Hugh Miall, Contemporary Conflict Resolution, 3rd Edition (Cambridge: Polity Press, 2006), Chapters 6 and 7
Alex Bellamy and Paul Williams, 'Special Issue: Peace Operations and Global Order', International Peacekeeping, Vol.11, No.1 (2004): Read the introduction and at least one additional article in this special issue.

Additional reading:

Ray Murphy, UN peacekeeping in Lebanon, Somalia and Kosovo: operational and legal issues in practice (Cambridge: CUP, 2007).
Andrzej Sitkowski, UN Peacekeeping: Myth and Reality (Westport: Praeger Security International 2006).

Week 9: Responding to conflict: Humanitarian Intervention and Post-War Reconstruction

Is there such a thing as international society?
What is the difference between pluralist and solidarist ideas in international society?
Why do states undertake humanitarian interventions?
Do states have an obligation to intervene to protect human rights? Why or why not?

Required reading:

Oliver Ramsbotham and Tom Woodhouse and Hugh Miall, Contemporary Conflict Resolution, 3rd Edition (Cambridge: Polity Press, 2006), Chapter 8
Gregory Shank, 'Not a Just War, Just a War - NATO's Humanitarian Bombing Mission', Social Justice, Vol. 26, No. 1 (1999), pp. 4-48.

Ho-Won Jeong, (ed.), Peacebuilding in Post Conflict Societies, Lynne Rienner, 2005

Note: Since there is no scheduled tutorial for Week 12's lecture due to the holiday break, our final tutorial session will 'jump ahead' to cover material for Week 11 and 12. Accordingly, this session has a much higher reading load than normal. Please do as much as you can, subject to time constraints and your other responsibilities.

Week 11: Dealing with the past: Trauma and atrocity and the pursuit of justice

Can communities experience trauma?
What are the political ramifications of trauma in post-conflict situations?
How does the pursuit of justice contribute to peacebuilding?
What are the limitations of the pursuit of post-atrocity justice?
How do truth commissions contribute to peacebuilding?
What are the limitations of this approach to post-conflict reconciliation?

Required reading:

Oliver Ramsbotham and Tom Woodhouse and Hugh Miall, Contemporary Conflict Resolution, 3rd Edition (Cambridge: Polity Press, 2006), Chapter 10

Essay topics

Essay 1 must be chosen from the following topics:

1. Is the realist perspective on war persuasive? Why or why not?
2. Can international institutions ever eliminate war?
3. Are the wars of the post-Cold War world really 'new'?
4. What role does ethnicity play in contemporary conflict?
5. How well does the greed thesis explain civil wars?

Essay 2 must be chosen from the following topics:

1. Is the 'war on terror' really a war?
2. What were the goals of UN peacekeeping during the Cold War environment?
How did UN peace operations change in the post-Cold war world?
3. Is humanitarian intervention destined to fail? Illustrate referring to two or more case studies.
4. Are conflict transformation approaches revolutionary? Can they create a self-sustaining peace?
5. Can Truth and Reconciliation Commissions bring peace in a way that War Crimes Tribunals can't? Why or why not?
