Course content

This course will provide advanced level study of written and spoken Chinese, with particular reference to the language of the print and electronic media of China; advanced practical translation from and into Chinese; tuition in the use of a range of contemporary references tools.

The course includes the following components:

a) Reading (handouts)

The material contains Chinese proses and newspaper articles, aiming to enrich students' knowledge of modern China, Chinese culture and history while continuously improving their reading comprehension, and obtaining a reasonably broad range of vocabulary, useful phrases and expressions.

b) Listening and Speaking

Both the print and electronic materials are used for listening comprehension and discussion.

Learning objectives

Upon completion of the BA Honours programme in Chinese, graduates will:

- Have advanced level mastery of written and spoken Chinese;
- Have advanced level skills in translation from Chinese into English and be able to use a range of Sinological reference tools and dictionaries, both Chinese and Western, modern and traditional;
- Have acquired the skills of topic definition, information gathering, analysis and interpretation in the Sinological context and have developed an understanding of the traditional and contemporary methodologies in this field of studies;
- Have applied these various skills and methodologies to one or more specific aspects of Sinology.

Course delivery

One lecture per week.

Communication of additional information

Information on any timetable changes will be announced in lectures and posted on the Chinese Programme Notice Board on Level 7 of the von Zedlitz Building and Blackboard. You are advised to check Blackboard and the notice board regularly.

Penalties

The late submission of assignments must be negotiated with the co-ordinator concerned before the due date and, depending on the circumstances, may be penalised.

Academic Integrity and Plagiarism

Academic integrity means that university staff and students, in their teaching and learning are expected to treat others honestly, fairly and with respect at all times. It is not acceptable to mistreat academic, intellectual or creative work that has been done by other people by representing it as your own original work.

Academic integrity is important because it is the core value on which the University's learning, teaching and research activities are based. Victoria University's reputation for academic integrity adds value to your qualification.

The University defines plagiarism as presenting someone else's work as if it were your own, whether you mean to or not. 'Someone else's work' means anything that is not your own idea. Even if it is presented in your own style, you must acknowledge your sources fully and appropriately. This includes:

- Material from books, journals or any other printed source
- The work of other students or staff
- Information from the internet
- Software programs and other electronic material
- Designs and ideas
- The organisation or structuring of any such material

Find out more about plagiarism, how to avoid it and penalties, on the University's website:

<http://www.victoria.ac.nz/home/study/plagiarism.aspx>

General University Policies and Statutes

Students should familiarise themselves with the University's policies and statutes, particularly the Assessment Statute, the Personal Courses of Study Statute, the Statute on Student Conduct and any statutes relating to the particular qualifications being studied; see the Victoria University Calendar or go to the Academic Policy and Student Policy sections on:

<http://www.victoria.ac.nz/home/about/policy>

The AVC(Academic) website also provides information for students in a number of areas including Academic Grievances, Student and Staff conduct, Meeting the needs of students with impairments, and student support/VUWSA student advocates.
