Class times and locations

Lecture times: Mon & Fri 12:00 – 12:50pm
Lecture venue: MYLT 101
Tutorials: Tutorials start in the second week of lectures. You can sign up for a tutorial at the first lecture.

Course delivery

The course is delivered over 12 weeks of lectures and 11 weeks of tutorials. Both tutorials and lectures are essential aspects of the course and the primary means in which the course content is delivered.

Communication of additional information

Additional and updated course information and material will be available on Blackboard or distributed in class.

Course content

This course overviews the governments and politics of East Asian countries. We focus primarily on China, Japan, Korea and Taiwan, and examine modern political development, state institutions and functions, structures of political society, methods of political participation, and the problem of modern state building in these countries.

Learning objectives

Students passing the course should:

- have developed a general knowledge of the overall patterns and dynamics of East Asian politics;
- have a good understanding of government and politics in at least one of the East Asian countries;
- be familiar with the basic concepts and issues covered in this course;
- have acquired basic skills in studying East Asian politics (locating information, choosing a topic, discussing an issue, etc.); and
- be able to write an academic essay on a relevant topic.

Expected workload

In-Term Work

- This course requires that you have done the readings before the lecture and tutorials, attend the lectures as required, participate actively in tutorials, submit two essays as part of the assessment and sit the in-class test in week 12 of the trimester.

Workload

- In accordance with Faculty of Humanities and Social Science guidelines the overall workload for this course is 200 hours in total.

Tutorials

- Tutorials start from week 2 and serve as an opportunity for students to explore further the concepts, issues and problems raised in the readings and lectures. Students attending the tutorials are expected to bring a list of questions they want to discuss and have completed the required reading for each tutorial.

Assessment

This course is assessed on the following basis. See “Assessment requirements” on pages 4-5 for further instructions.

Assessment requirements

1. First Essay

In this assignment, you are asked to write an essay on a question listed under “Study Questions” at the end of the first three chapters of the course text. Your essay should focus on only one of the four countries (China, Japan, Korea or Taiwan). This assignment gives you the opportunity to demonstrate your ability to analyse an issue in an East Asian country and write an academic paper on it.

2. Second Essay

This second assignment asks you to write an essay on one of the end-of-chapter study questions from chapter four to ten. The focus of the second essay is on the general pattern across these East Asian countries (China, Japan, Korea and Taiwan) on the chosen question/topic. A comparative analysis is required to explain the similarities and differences among these countries. The assignment requires you to compare at least two of these countries. This assignment allows you to demonstrate your ability to use comparative skills to examine general patterns in East Asian politics.

You are required to email the adapted essay question to me for approval before 30 April. Essays that have not had the adapted study question approved will not be accepted for grading.

3. In-Class Test

The final test is on the last class meeting (4 June, same time & place). The 50-minute test will cover material from the readings, lectures and tutorials. The test will have two parts:

Part A asks you to briefly define and discuss some key terms and concepts covered in the course (choose 4 out of 6).

In Part B, you are asked to write a short essay on a question from a list of three. Questions are based on the study questions at the end of the chapters of the course text.

This in-class test assesses students' knowledge of East Asian politics, expected to be gained from the lectures, discussions and readings, and their ability to organise thoughts and ideas in response to a question or problem.

4. Text Requirements for Written Work

All written assignments must have:

- A completed PSIR assignment coversheet attached (available on Blackboard).
- A cover page with (1) a title (not the original topic/question), highlighting the main theme of the work; (2) a 150-word abstract, summarizing your main thesis/argument; and (3) your name, ID# and contact details, as well as a course code/year and submission date.
- Font size for main text equivalent to Times 12 and line spacing at 1.5, with a 3 cm margin on the right.
- Your name and course code/year on the header of each page.
- Page number and number of total pages (i.e. p.2 of 11) on the footer of each page.
- Word count at the end of the last page (including footnotes and references).

5. Citations and References for Written Work

Footnotes/endnotes or short in-text citations (author year: page, e.g. Huang 2009: 12) should be used right after the cited content. A full citation for each of the items cited should be provided at the end of the work, in alphabetical order under the heading "References," following the same format for each type of publication. For materials you have consulted but not cited, you can provide their full citations under the heading “Bibliography” at the end of your work. A list of references is required, but a bibliography is optional.

There are various referencing styles in use (MLA, Sage, Chicago, etc). Students should use one style consistently throughout the essay. For more information on essay writing and citation and referencing guidelines, please refer to the Political Science and International Relations Essay Writing Guide (available on Blackboard).

6. Submission of Written Work

All written work must be typewritten and submitted in hardcopy, with the Programme’s Declaration Form signed and attached. The Declaration Form (PSIR Assignment Coversheet) is available on Blackboard or from the department’s main office.

I will collect your work at the end of the lecture on the due date. Please do not leave your assignment anywhere else (not under the door of my office, nor any boxes outside the Programme’s main office – I don’t collect submissions from these places). If you are submitting early or late please email me to make a time to come to my office to submit.

The Programme’s policy requires that students also submit an electronic copy along with the hardcopy. For this course, please email to me an electronic copy of your work on the same due date for your hardcopy submission. The subject line of your email submission should be “203-2010 First Assignment.” The email copy however does not constitute a formal submission and I will not mark an email submission only.

The course expects students to submit their assignments on time. Requests for extensions should be made with the lecturer in person with proper documentation before the due date. Extensions are normally given only to those with a medical certificate, or other evidence of forces beyond your control.

Penalties

Late submissions of written assignments without an approved extension will incur a penalty of 5% deduction of marks for each day it is late, for up to one week. After that, no submissions will be accepted.

Mandatory course requirements

To gain a pass in this course each student must:

- Submit the written work specified for this course, on or by the specified dates (subject to such provisions as are stated for late submission of work);
- Attend at least 80% of the lectures and tutorials (excluding first and last meetings); and
- Sit the final in-class test.

Class Representative

A class representative will be elected in the second lecture. That person's name and contact details will be available to VUWSA, the Course Coordinator and the class. The class representative provides a communication channel to liaise with the Course Coordinator on behalf of students. Please email me before the second lecture if you are interested in taking on this role.

Academic Integrity and Plagiarism

Academic integrity means that university staff and students, in their teaching and learning are expected to treat others honestly, fairly and with respect at all times. It is not acceptable to mistreat academic, intellectual or creative work that has been done by other people by representing it as your own original work.

Academic integrity is important because it is the core value on which the University's learning, teaching and research activities are based. Victoria University's reputation for academic integrity adds value to your qualification.

The University defines plagiarism as presenting someone else's work as if it were your own, whether you mean to or not. 'Someone else's work' means anything that is not your own idea. Even if it is presented in your own style, you must acknowledge your sources fully and appropriately. This includes:

- Material from books, journals or any other printed source
- The work of other students or staff
- Information from the internet
- Software programs and other electronic material
- Designs and ideas
- The organisation or structuring of any such material

Find out more about plagiarism, how to avoid it and penalties, on the University's website: <http://www.victoria.ac.nz/home/study/plagiarism.aspx>

Use of Turnitin

Student work provided for assessment in this course may be checked for academic integrity by the electronic search engine <http://www.turnitin.com>. Turnitin is an online plagiarism prevention tool which compares submitted work with a very large database of existing material. At the discretion of the Head of School, handwritten work may be copy-typed by the School and subject to checking by Turnitin. Turnitin will retain a copy of submitted material on behalf of the University for detection of future plagiarism, but access to the full text of submissions is not made available to any other party.

GENERAL UNIVERSITY POLICIES AND STATUTES

Students should familiarise themselves with the University's policies and statutes, particularly the Assessment Statute, the Personal Courses of Study Statute, the Statute on Student Conduct and any statutes relating to the particular qualifications being studied; see the Victoria University Calendar or go to the Academic Policy and Student Policy sections on:

<http://www.victoria.ac.nz/home/about/policy>

The AVC(Academic) website also provides information for students in a number of areas including Academic Grievances, Student and Staff conduct, Meeting the needs of students with impairments, and student support/VUWSA student advocates. This website can be accessed at:
