COURSE PRESCRIPTION

This course will deal with various aspects of visual Anthropology, concentrating on different cultural perspectives as captured in visual media. As well as looking at early depictions of indigenous peoples, we will deal with the history and presence of ethnographic photography and filming. The course will examine theoretical aspects of visual Anthropology, the analysis of scripts and picture composition as well as practical issues of archiving. It will include visits to research institutions in Wellington.

COURSE AIMS AND OBJECTIVES

Students who pass this course will be familiar with:

- The history of the 'ethnographic gaze' as well as present frameworks of analysing visual sources of research material.
- Various research institutions in Wellington and how to use them for their own research.

The objective is that at the end of the course students will be able to critically analyse visual media from an anthropological perspective.

TUTORIALS

You will be expected to attend tutorials and to contribute to discussions based upon the course and the readings set for each tutorial. A minimum attendance of six tutorials is part of the course requirement; attendance sheets will be used.

To gain full value from the course you should attend all lectures and tutorials.

COMMUNICATION OF ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Any additional information for this course, including details for readings and assignments will be communicated via Blackboard.

ASSESSMENTS

The course is internally assessed and consists of three assignments as outlined below (worth 30%, 30% and 40%):

- An analysis of a picture (either an ethnographic photograph, a cartoon series, a historic photograph or work of art) worth 30% in form of either a research poster (to be exhibited in class) or as a power point presentation (presented either in class or in a tutorial). The poster has to be handed in no later than 4pm, Friday, 17 August; if you wish to present a power point presentation, this can be done at an arranged time in class or a tutorial during the trimester (time slots will be offered and registered).

- An internal test worth 30% of the final mark, analysing a part of an ethnographic film using some of the course readings and additional background material. This test, including the screening of the film, will be sat Tuesday 25 September during class time. Please make sure that you do not miss this date.
- An essay (2500-3000 words plus optional visual documentation, photographs etc.) worth 40% of the final mark, describing and analysing the work of a photographer or filmmaker with (professional) background in Anthropology, or alternatively an essay based on a fieldwork or film project undertaken by the student him/herself. Detailed information will be handed out and discussed during class and tutorials. The essay is due no later than 4pm, Friday 19 October.

Further details on the essay and the test will be discussed in class.

AIMS, OBJECTIVES AND ASSESSMENT

The forms of assessment will assist you to achieve the aims and objectives outlined above and to develop skills in dealing with visual sources from an anthropological perspective.

And you will also have learnt how to critically analyse visual sources of different kinds for their ethnographic content and present your findings in written form. You will be able to undertake basic background research in media.

All assignments are building on your ability to acquire the skills listed above. The picture analysis will provide you with an understanding on how read, describe and analyse a picture; this will be taken further by the in-class test, getting you to transfer these skills to analysing an ethnographic film and placing it into the history of anthropological film and the work of the respective filmmaker; writing the final research essay, discussing and researching the oeuvre of an ethnographic photographer or filmmaker of your choice will further enhance your set of tools needed to analyse works relevant to visual anthropology.
