Teaching Learning Summary

GERM 104 is based on a varied approach. Classes include textbook work, grammar exercises, conversation practice, pronunciation drills, interactive computer exercises and language games. The purpose of the lecture is to mainly introduce new grammar aspects in a communicative context, whereas the language tutorials and the AV class are aimed at practising German grammar and using the German language in everyday life oriented communicative situations.

You are expected to supplement classroom learning with additional work on your own in the LLC or in study groups (to be organised by the students themselves or with the help of the PASS-leader). Students who have completed GERM 104 with a good grade may enrol for GERM 217 in the following year.

Course delivery

GERM 104 is a second trimester course of FIVE hours per week, involving one lecture, three language tutorials and one audio-visual class. Students are expected to attend all classes.

Communication of additional information

You can find further information about the course on Blackboard, and on the German Programme noticeboard (situated on Level 6 von Zedlitz building, opposite room vZ603). From time to time, staff may also circulate emails to all students in the class.

Course prescription

This course builds on the skills acquired in GERM 103. It aims to further develop students' knowledge and understanding of the German language in an interactive way.

Course content

In GERM 104, you will:

- read texts in German and learn about a variety of cultural and social aspects of the German-speaking countries;
- expand your vocabulary in context and learn to recognize German word formation patterns;
- improve your listening comprehension skills and your pronunciation;
- learn to build complex sentences in German correctly;
- practise describing objects and events, expressing future plans, reporting about past events, and expressing wishes and requests.

Learning objectives

GERM 104 presupposes a successful completion of GERM 103 Introduction to the German Language (or equivalent comparable to NCEA Level 1 or Level A1 of the European Framework for Language Learning) and teaches the four skills of reading, writing, listening and speaking in an interactive way.

This course will enable students to reach a level comparable to NCEA Level 2-3 or Level A2 of the European Framework for Language Learning.

Students who pass the course should:

- be able to hold a basic conversation in German
- be able to write and talk about present, past and future events or situations at an elementary level
- be familiar with elementary German grammar (cases, tenses, moods, voices, sentence construction), and
- be able to read a range of German texts with the help of a dictionary.

Expected workload

The University Assessment Handbook has laid down guidelines as to the number of hours per week which students are expected to devote to a course in order to maintain satisfactory progress. Students enrolling in a 100-level 1-trimester 20-point course should work on average 13 hours per week including contact hours - i.e. you are expected to work an additional eight hours per week.

This additional work includes:

- completing assignments
- studying vocabulary
- reviewing class content and preparing for classes, and
- practising reading, writing, listening and speaking German in your own time, for example by using material provided in the LLC.

NB: The additional work will naturally vary according to the prior knowledge of German and the general language aptitude that a student brings to the course.

Readings

Set Texts

Passwort Deutsch 2 Kursbuch (textbook, Edition Klett) and the GERM 104 Supplementary Material (Student Notes) will be used in all classes. You are also strongly encouraged to use the Passwort Deutsch 2 Übungsbuch (workbook with supplementary exercises, Edition Klett) for independent study. You may also buy a dictionary and a grammar if you wish to, but this is not essential for this course. We recommend Christine Stief & Christian Stang, German Grammar in a Nutshell.

All undergraduate textbooks and student notes will be sold from the Memorial Theatre foyer from 9–27 July 2012, while postgraduate textbooks and student notes will be available from the top floor of vicbooks in the Student Union Building, Kelburn Campus. After week two of the trimester all undergraduate textbooks and student notes will be sold from vicbooks on Level 4 of the Student Union Building.

Customers can order textbooks and student notes online at www.vicbooks.co.nz or can email an order or enquiry to enquiries@vicbooks.co.nz. Books can be couriered to customers or they can be picked up from nominated collection points at each campus. Customers will be contacted when they are available.

Opening hours for VicBooks are 8.00 am – 6.00 pm, Monday – Friday during term time (closing at 5.00 pm in the holidays). Phone: 463 5515.

Assessment requirements

GERM 104 is internally assessed. Assessment is by:

- | | | |

(c)	One listening assignment, due on 13 September The purpose of this assignment is to assess students' listening skills in German.	10%
(d)	Vocabulary quizzes, every Monday in the AV class (starting in Week 3) The purpose of these quizzes is to assess students' vocabulary knowledge.	10%

Penalties

Tests

If you are unable to attend a written test or the final oral test through exceptional circumstances such as accident, illness or bereavement, an explanation must be made, if possible in writing, prior to the test. In this case an alternative test or date may be arranged.

Assignments

If you submit an assignment after the due date, you will incur a 5% penalty for each weekday late. In special circumstances such as accident, illness or bereavement, an extension may be granted, but only after you consult with the staff member concerned.

NB: In case of illness, you must supply a medical certificate.

Tests, assignments, vocabulary quizzes, progress tasks and oral test

In any language course it is essential that you work steadily and consistently throughout. It is not possible to understand and apply the grammar well enough if it is learned by last-minute "cramming". That is why assessment is by a number of tests and assignments rather than by one major test at the end of the course.

Tests

Each test will presume acquaintance with the material studied prior to that test, i.e. the material covered in all five weekly classes and any written assignments done.

Assignments

Assignments provide practice in reading and writing in German, as well as important grammar points. One assignment focuses mainly on listening comprehension. The assignments help to prepare for a test. They are made available through Blackboard.

Vocabulary quizzes

Vocabulary quizzes test your vocabulary knowledge on a weekly basis. You can prepare yourself for these quizzes by working with the vocabulary lists included in the GERM 104 Supplementary Material and by practising with the electronic vocabulary flashcards available through the Language Learning Centre. Vocabulary quizzes will be completed in the AV classes using Blackboard. Failure to complete a vocabulary quiz results in a zero mark for that quiz.

Oral test

The oral test is 5 minutes/student in length. It is designed to test your fluency, grammatical accuracy and use of vocabulary in elementary oral German.

Mandatory course requirements

To gain a pass in this course, you must:

- attend both written tests
- attend the oral test
- attend a minimum of 80% of tutorials and AV-classes, and
- hand in all three assignments.

If you are unable to attend a particular class for any reason, it is up to you to review what has been covered in this class, and to check when the next assignment or progress task is due. This information is available on Blackboard.

Unless informed to the contrary, you may assume that you have met the mandatory course requirements.

Learning opportunities

We encourage you to take advantage of whatever opportunities occur outside class hours to practise your German, for example:

- reading German articles or books
- watching German films
- attending lectures at the Goethe Society or Goethe Institute
- coming along to Kaffeestunde
- participating in the student play production
- having conversations with Germans
- chatting in German online, etc.

We also advise you to use self-access material provided by the LLC, including:

- several computer programmes, which deal with all aspects of German grammar and pronunciation, and
- electronic vocabulary flashcards created specifically for this course.

Remember too that staff are here to help you. Do not feel shy about asking questions in class if you have not understood something. Feel free to tell us what you find most (or least) interesting or useful in the course.

Language Learning Centre (LLC) Level 0, von Zedlitz Building

The Language Learning Centre (LLC) is Victoria's technology-rich, multimedia centre supporting language learning and teaching.

At the LLC you can practise and extend your language learning. You can:

- select the materials or activities that you find interesting
- study with resources that match your language level and learning style
- find a welcoming environment with services and events, and onsite assistance and support for languages

Access a variety of multimedia language resources at the LLC: everything from print, audio materials, foreign language TV and DVDs to language-learning software.

The LLC provides access to your digital course material on a server, and instructions are given during LLC orientations. The Blackboard site for most language courses has an LLC content-page for your reference, with web links, LLC Guides, resource lists, etc.

Drop by the centre to find out more, and check out the website.

Class representative

A class representative will be elected in the first class, and that person's name and contact details will be made available to VUWSA, the Course Co-ordinator and the class. The class representative provides a communication channel to liaise with the Course co-ordinator on behalf of students. Class representatives will attend a meeting with the Head of School to discuss how your courses are going and to raise any concerns or suggestions that they may have.

Academic integrity and plagiarism

Academic integrity means that university staff and students, in their teaching and learning are expected to treat others honestly, fairly and with respect at all times. It is not acceptable to mistreat academic, intellectual or creative work that has been done by other people by representing it as your own original work.

Academic integrity is important because it is the core value on which the University's learning, teaching and research activities are based. Victoria University's reputation for academic integrity adds value to your qualification.

The University defines plagiarism as presenting someone else's work as if it were your own, whether you mean to or not. 'Someone else's work' means anything that is not your own idea. Even if it is presented in your own style, you must acknowledge your sources fully and appropriately. This includes:

- Material from books, journals or any other printed source
- The work of other students or staff
- Information from the internet
- Software programs and other electronic material
- Designs and ideas
- The organisation or structuring of any such material

Find out more about plagiarism, how to avoid it and penalties, on the University's website:
