COURSE PRESCRIPTION

This course will offer a general introduction to the anthropology of ritual. It will consider the variety of ways that ritual has been studied and analysed anthropologically with a particular focus on the role and significance of ritual in modern societies. Examples will be drawn from New Zealand and a wide range of contemporary cultures.

COURSE AIMS AND LEARNING OBJECTIVES

The aim of this course is to provide you with an understanding of how rituals are structured and analysed by Anthropologists; and how they are involved in making/creating meaning. The objectives of the course are to provide you with the ability to contextualise, describe and analyse rituals in your own, related and different cultures. You will also acquire the necessary methodological skills for undertaking basic non-participant observation, taking field notes, coding field notes and writing up a field report.

A set of student notes for ANTH 213 will be available from the vicbooks. The retail price is $24.60. This is the only item you need to purchase for this course.

COURSE ASSESSMENT

The course consists of three written assignments, worth 30%, 40% and 30%, which will be internally assessed

- Report based on a subject (of about 2000 words) worth 30% for non-participant observation; this is seen as a preparation for the first essay.

Due: 4pm, Tuesday, 3 April 2012

- Essay (2000 – 2500 words) worth 40% on political ritual and performance with reference to an Anzac-Day ceremony using anthropological ideas from the course. If students cannot attend such a ceremony this year, an alternative subject can be chosen in consultation with the course coordinator.

Due: 4pm, Monday, 7 May 2012

- In-Class Test worth 30% which requires an analysis of a modern ritual, drawing on course material, specified lectures and possibly a film clip.

Held on Tuesday, 5 June 2012 from 9am - 9.50 am (during lecture time).

More detailed instructions on each assignment will be given to you prior to assessments.

AIMS, OBJECTIVES AND ASSESSMENT

The forms of assessment will assist you to achieve the aims and objectives outlined above and to develop particular study skills.

The Essay on 'Anzac Day' will develop research, writing and reasoning skills, as well as providing initial instruction on combining fieldwork with anthropological theory.

The internal test will enable you to apply the theoretical aspects of research on ritual you will have learned during the course to a modern and specific ritual.

WORKLOAD

Taking into account class attendance, reading, preparation for assignments and so on, students are usually recommended to spend around 13 hours per week working for ANTH 213.

PENALTIES

Penalties will apply for lateness in presenting assignments. 5% will be deducted from the piece of work per day counting that piece of work as 100%. This penalty will only be waived by the presentation of a medical certificate or other evidence of incapacity.

CLASS REPRESENTATIVE

A class representative will be recruited in consultation with the class at the beginning of the course. The class representative's name and contact details will be available to the Victoria University of Wellington Students' Association (VUWSA), the course coordinator and the class (on BlackBoard). The class representative provides a communication channel to liaise with the course coordinator on behalf of students.

MANDATORY COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Students must attend and participate in a minimum of 7 tutorials and hand in the report and essay on time and sit the in-class test to meet mandatory course requirements. If you miss more than two tutorials without an adequate reason, health/family circumstances etc., you will not have met course requirements and therefore fail the course.
