CLAS 101

Course Handout 2012

1. Course Organization

Lecturers:

- Dr. David Rosenbloom (course convener), office OK 516, ph. 463-5478, e-mail, david.rosenbloom@vuw.ac.nz; office hour T 3:00-4:00 and by appointment.
- Dr. Simon Perris, OK 513, ph. 463-7407, e-mail, simon.perris@vuw.ac.nz; office hour F 10:00-11:00 and by appointment.

Tutors: Hanna Mason, Sam Howell, Julia Simons, Jess Casbolt

Lecture time and place: 2:10-3:00, M, T, Th; Maclaurin LT 101. Section 9 below (pp. 15-17) gives a complete schedule of lectures.

Dates: lectures take place from 5 March through 7 June.

Course Prescription

A study of significant texts of Greek literature, the myths behind the texts, and the societies which the texts reflect. Special emphasis is placed on Homeric epic, tragedy and comedy.

2. Learning Objectives and Content

Course Delivery and Tutorials

In this course there are 36 lectures and 9 tutorials. Tutorials start in week 2. Tutorial groups are scheduled at various times and places throughout the week. Students can sign up to tutorials on SCUBED during the first week. Each tutorial will begin with a brief quiz. Together, these quizzes constitute 10% of the final grade in this course. Students are expected to prepare for tutorials and to participate in the discussion.

Blackboard

Materials for this class will be available on Blackboard—this course handout, reference materials (maps, timelines, optional readings), tutorials and tutorial quizzes, PowerPoint slides of lectures (in pdf format), additional required readings, such as texts of the Epic Cycle, the Homeric Hymn to Demeter, and of Greek Lyric Poetry. It is essential that you have an active ITS account. If you do not have one, enquire in the University Library, level 2, immediately. Bear in mind that PowerPoint slides posted on Blackboard are not substitutes for attending the lectures.

Additional information

Any further announcements concerning the course will be posted on Blackboard.

Learning Objectives and Content

CLAS 101 is an introduction to the major genres of archaic and classical Greek poetry and song, especially epic, tragedy, and comedy, and to the prose of Plato. Students who successfully complete the course should:—

- have demonstrated familiarity with selected ancient Greek myths and texts, which form the basis for much of Western literature;
- have gained an understanding of Greek poetry and prose, the myths underlying them, and the social and cultural forces that helped create them;
- have gained an appreciation of the extent to which Greek myth and literature continue to influence contemporary culture.

Expected Workload

In order to complete the course successfully, an 'average' student should expect to spend about 10 hours per week on it, i.e. 4 class hours, and 6 hours for preparation, reading, and essay writing. Note that this is a rough guideline only and the calculation includes breaks, study week, and exam period. Some people might have to put in more time, others less. The time commitment will be greatest at the beginning of the course when the Iliad is being read, and in the weeks

CLAS 101

Course Handout 2012

immediately prior to essay hand-in dates.

3. Readings

It is important to have a copy of the correct edition and translation of each of the set texts.

Required Texts

Homer, Iliad (Penguin, trans. Robert Fagles).

Sophocles, The Three Theban Plays (Penguin, trans. Robert Fagles). We are reading Antigone and Oedipus the King.

Euripides, Medea and Other Plays (World's Classics, trans. James Morwood). We are reading Medea and Electra.

Aristophanes, Acharnians, Lysistrata, Clouds (Focus Classical Library, trans. Jeffrey Henderson). We are reading Lysistrata, Acharnians, and Clouds.

Plato, Symposium (World's Classics, trans. Robin Waterfield).

Note: All undergraduate textbooks and student notes will be sold from the Memorial Theatre foyer from 13 February to 16 March 2012, while postgraduate textbooks and student notes will be available from the top floor of vicbooks in the Student Union Building, Kelburn Campus. After week two of the trimester all undergraduate textbooks and student notes will be sold from vicbooks on Level 4 of the Student Union Building.

Customers can order textbooks and student notes online at www.vicbooks.co.nz or can email an order or enquiry to enquiries@vicbooks.co.nz. Books can be couriered to customers or they can be picked up from nominated collection points at each campus. Customers will be contacted when they are available.

Opening hours are 8.00 am–6.00 pm, Monday–Friday during term time (closing at 5.00 pm in the holidays).
Phone: 463 5515

Required Readings Posted on Blackboard

Readings on the Epic Cycle (P. Gainsford trans.)

Homeric Hymn to Demeter (G. Nagy trans.)

Greek Lyric Poetry (various trans.)

Optional Reading Posted on Blackboard

Classics Study Guide, a general guide on how to prepare written assignments.

Recommended Reading

The following books give a good general background to ancient Greece and its literature.

- Dover, K. J. ed., Ancient Greek Literature (Oxford, 2nd edition 1997).
- Easterling, P. E. and Muir, J.V. eds., Greek Religion and Society (Cambridge 1985).
- Finley, M. I., The Ancient Greeks (Penguin 1966).
- Romilly, J. A. de, Short History of Greek Literature, L. Doherty trans. (Chicago 1985).

4. Assessment and Mandatory Course Requirements

Overview

In assignments and the final exam, students should demonstrate a knowledge and understanding of the literature, myth, and society of ancient Greece, as outlined above in section 2, by showing:

- ability to research the answers to factual questions (the tutorial assignment sheets);
- capacity for research and critical thought over a period of time (text analysis and essay);
- capacity for displaying acquired knowledge and critical thought in a fixed time limit (the final exam).

Assessment is as follows. 60% is in-term and 40% by way of final examination.

CLAS 101

Course Handout 2012

1. Tutorial assignment sheets due at start of each tutorial (10%)
2. Text-analysis exercise on the Iliad (1,000 to 1,200 words) due Thursday, 5 April at 5:00 PM (20%)
3. One essay on Sophocles (1,200 to 1,500 words) due Thursday 10 May at 5:00 PM (30%)
4. Final 2-hour examination (40%) (Exam period: 15 June through 4 July)

Apart from the tutorial assignment sheets, each piece of assessed work will be given a grade, not a numerical mark. Grades range from A+ to E; the lowest pass mark is C. A policy of reasonable accommodation will be applied to assessment for candidates with disabilities. For criteria used in assessment, see below under "Criteria for Assessment" (pp. 5-6). Also see below for more specific information about assignments.

Tutorial Assignment Sheets (10%)

Tutorial assignment sheets will be available online on Blackboard at least one week before they are due. At some time before each tutorial, students should print the relevant assignment sheet, complete it, and hand it in at the beginning of the tutorial. Each assignment sheet contains 10 short-answer factual questions, of which most are based on the topic for discussion in tutorial, and a few are on Greek myth generally. Answers to topic-specific questions can be found either in the set text (e.g. Iliad, Homeric Hymn to Demeter) or in tutorial reading. For general questions on myth you may have to do some research: look in an encyclopedia of classical myth or on the WWW (see pp. 9-10 below on Web Resources).

NB: you may only hand in the assignment sheet if you attend the relevant tutorial. If you arrive late, or fail to remain for the full tutorial, or attend the wrong tutorial group, your assignment sheet will not receive a mark. Assignment sheets will only be accepted after a tutorial if they are accompanied by a medical certificate or other satisfactory document showing that you were unfit to attend class on the specific date in question.

Iliad Text-Analysis Exercise (20%)

Due date: Thursday 5 April 5:00 pm in the Classics assignment box (outside OK 508).

Write a critical analysis of Iliad 4.99-211. The length of your analysis should be 1000 (minimum) to 1200 (maximum) words. You should discuss such matters as:

- how the passage fits into its context in the poem, developing previous scenes and motifs;
- advances or retards the plot; signals future plot developments;
- characterizes its speakers and actors;
- employs poetic images and stylistic devices, especially those characteristic of Greek oral poetry, such as epithets, formulae, similes, typical scenes.
- uses rhetorical techniques to persuade an internal audience (other characters in the poem) and to illicit emotional responses from its external audience (auditors/readers of the poem).
- uses mythological paradigms

Do not summarize the passage or the Iliad. A summary of the Iliad, or of the passage or any part of it, will receive no credit. For detailed guidance on writing a text analysis refer to:

- Tutorial 2, posted on Blackboard
- The sample text analysis, posted on Blackboard
- The Classics Study Guide (section 14)

Essay on Sophocles (30%)

Due: Thursday 10 May, 5:00 PM in the Classics assignment box (outside OK 508)

Write an argumentative essay of 1200 words (minimum) to 1500 words (maximum) on ONE of the following topics:

1. In your opinion, which character presents a more convincing justification for action, Kreon or Antigone? Do you think that the more convincing justification makes the character more sympathetic?

CLAS 101

Course Handout 2012

2. Aristotle treated Sophocles' Oedipus the King as the exemplary tragedy. In your opinion, does the play merit this status? If so, why? If not, why not?

Advice on planning and writing essays, text analyses etc. can be found in the Classics Study Guide. Make sure to refer to the assessment criteria below and guidelines at the top of the reading list below, on how to go about making use of research resources. Note especially the warning about the use of the web (p. 8 below).

Final Two-Hour Examination (40%)

The two-hour final examination comprises three sections:

- A series of short-answer keyword identifications of names, terms, and concepts used in the class (10/40).
- Comment on a "gobbet." This is similar to the in-term text analysis. You will have a choice of passages taken from the texts of Euripides, Plato, and Aristophanes studied in the course (10/40).
- An essay question, where you will have a choice of questions dealing with important themes or myths running through the course as a whole (20/40).

The final lecture provides further discussion of the exam and an overview of the course as a whole.

NB: the dates of the final examination period for the first trimester 2012 are 15 June to 4 July.

Criteria for Assessment: Text Analysis and Essay

- Use of Evidence: Evidence includes both primary sources (in this course, Homer's Iliad, the Homeric Hymn to Demeter, the Lyric Poets, Sophocles, Euripides, Aristophanes, and Plato) and secondary sources (scholarly interpretations of the primary sources in articles and books). You should give more weight to primary sources than to secondary sources. (It is rarely appropriate to cite a tertiary source, such as an encyclopedia). You are expected to collect, marshal, and cite your evidence in a balanced way to support an interpretation based upon reasoned argument.
- Argumentation: The primary goal of the essay is to develop a coherent and persuasive argument (or series of arguments) based upon justifiable interpretation of the text.
- Organization: A template might look something like this (but always adapt to the circumstances):
 - Introduction: outlining the boundaries of your topic, your methodology, and any necessary definitions;
 - Main Body: three to five points, citing and interpreting evidence reasonably and objectively;
 - Conclusion: summing-up of the main points and indication of what your interpretation points towards.
- Critical mentality: Don't merely compile others' views or cite evidence without evaluating it. Assess the possibilities of the evidence; cite and subject others' views to critical scrutiny in the development of your own analysis.
- Clarity: Use standard English and write in a way that is logical and readily understandable. You should always check your spelling and grammar from a hard copy. The spelling and grammar "checkers" in Word and other programs are inadequate. Be sure to leave space in the margins for comments.

Criteria for Assessment: The Final Exam

The final exam tests accuracy, breadth, and detail of knowledge of the works studied and the techniques of interpretation introduced in this course, assessing knowledge of terms (identification), ability to interpret passages of a work (gobbet), and capacity to write an argumentative essay based upon evidence and logical analysis (essay).

Extensions and Penalties for Essays

Extensions, for health reasons supported by a medical certificate or for some other necessary and demonstrable reason, must be applied for from the course coordinator (Dr. Rosenbloom) in advance of the due date. Extensions will not be granted if applied for on the due date or later, except in case of medical emergency, bereavement, or some other catastrophe. An assignment submitted after the due date will incur a penalty of 5 marks out of 100 per workday.

Mandatory Course Requirements

To pass this course each student must:

- Submit an Iliad text analysis and essay on Sophocles by their due dates;
- Sit the final examination.

Class Representative

A class representative will be elected in the first class. That person's name and contact details will be available to VUWSA, the Course Coordinator, and the class. The class representative provides a communication channel to liaise with the Course Coordinator on behalf of students.

5. Submission of Assessed Work

Submission

•Tutorial Assignment Sheets: Submit your completed tutorial assignment at the start of each tutorial. If you arrive late or do not remain for the entire tutorial, your assignment sheet will not count for a grade.

•Text Analysis and Essay: in advance of submitting your assignment, obtain a cover sheet, available on the wall outside the office of the Classics administrator, Hannah Webling (OK 508). Ensure that you are able to tick off all the requirements truthfully. When you are ready to submit, fill in the cover sheet, attach it to your assignment, and place the assignment in the locked assignment box (also outside OK 508). Be sure to keep a copy of all written work you submit in this class. Please do not send assignments by e-mail, give them to a staff member, place them in pigeon-holes, or push under doors.

Return of Written Work

All written work received by the due date will be returned within two weeks. There may be occasions when this cannot be achieved (e.g. sickness or heavy work load of markers), but it is our aim to provide you with the earliest possible feedback on your work.

6. Academic Integrity and Plagiarism

The following is the University's statement on plagiarism:

Academic integrity means that university staff and students, in their teaching and learning, are expected to treat others honestly, fairly, and with respect at all times. It is not acceptable to mistreat academic, intellectual or creative work that has been done by other people by representing it as your own original work.

Academic integrity is important because it is the core value on which the University's learning, teaching, and research activities are based. Victoria University's reputation for academic integrity adds value to your qualification.

The University defines plagiarism as presenting someone else's work as if it were your own, whether you mean to or not. 'Someone else's work' means anything that is not your own idea. Even if it is presented in your own style, you must acknowledge your sources fully and appropriately. This includes:

- Material from books, journals or any other printed source
- The work of other students or staff
- Information from the internet
- Software programs and other electronic material

CLAS 101

Course Handout 2012

- Designs and ideas
- The organisation or structuring of any such material

Find out more about plagiarism, how to avoid it and penalties, on the University's website:

<http://www.victoria.ac.nz/home/study/plagiarism.aspx>

How to avoid plagiarism: You will have plenty of chances to discuss this in tutorials. The most basic principle is this: use correctly-placed quotation marks and footnote references that allow the reader to locate exactly what the sources for your wording, information, interpretation, argument, and organization were. Omitting footnotes and quotation marks is a type of plagiarism.

Any work containing any plagiarism or falsified evidence will automatically receive a mark of zero.

7. More Detailed Information

Find key dates, explanations of grades, and other useful information at www.victoria.ac.nz/home/study.

Find out how academic progress is monitored and how enrolment can be restricted at www.victoria.ac.nz/home/study/academic-progress.

Most statutes and policies are available at www.victoria.ac.nz/home/about/policy, except qualification statutes, which are available via the Calendar webpage at www.victoria.ac.nz/home/study/calendar.aspx (See Section C).

Other useful information for students may be found at the website of the Assistant Vice-Chancellor (Academic), at www.victoria.ac.nz/home/about_victoria/avcademic.

8. Reading List

You do not need to read every book on the list below, and you do not need to read the whole book. Part of doing research is learning to be selective and efficient. Searching for the relevant information in JSTOR, Project Muse, L'Année Philologique or TOCSIN (see below) can save you time, as can searching in Google Books. It can also be helpful (though more time consuming) to browse through the relevant books on the 6th floor of the library. The table of contents at the front and the index at the back can tell you reasonably quickly whether a book offers anything useful for your specific topic.

Abbreviations

CR one copy is on closed reserve (2nd floor of library); other copies are available on 3D;

3D one or more copies on 3-day loan in the study hall (3rd floor). (NOTE: you can request 3-day reserve books if they are not in when you first look for them. This service is fast and efficient. Ask a librarian for help.)

* Particularly recommended as a starting point for those who have never studied the topic before. These books tend to be simple, clear, and elementary. All other books are held in the main collection, mainly the 6th floor (call marks starting with PA).

Web Resources

The only web-sites recommended are listed below. Use others at your own risk.

- Greek texts and Lattimore's English translations of Homer, the Homeric Hymns, and works attributed to Hesiod can be found at The Chicago Homer

<http://digital.library.northwestern.edu/homer/>

- You can find databases available through the VUW library web-site at (<http://www.victoria.ac.nz/library/resources/online.html>).

Most important for full-content articles and some monographs are JSTOR and Project Muse. JSTOR maintains a moving wall of about four to six years in most cases, so you can only access journals up to 2007-2008.

To find Classics journals available through the VUW Library website, search the library's Journal Finder (<http://gx4ej7nu5f.search.serialsolutions.com/>).

- The University subscribes to Oxford Reference on-line, which has a searchable database with access to the Oxford Classical Dictionary, The Oxford Companion to Classical Civilization, The Concise Oxford Companion to Classical Literature, Who's Who in the Classical World.

(http://www.oxfordreference.com/helicon.vuw.ac.nz/views/SUBJECT_SEARCH.html?subject=s3)

Scholarly books from Oxford University Press can be found on-line at <http://www.oxfordscholarship.com/browse?t1=classics>

- If these prove insufficient (and they may), the University also subscribes to Brill's New Pauly, an on-line encyclopedia of the ancient world and modern tradition:

(http://www.brillonline.nl/subscriber/uid=1773/title_home?title_id=bnp_bnp&authstatuscode=202).

The Ancient Library hosts an old but good encyclopedia, Smith's Dictionary of Biography and Mythology which is searchable and open to all (<http://www.ancientlibrary.com/smith-bio/>).

- TOCS-IN (<http://www.chass.utoronto.ca/cgi-bin/amphoras/tocfind>), a site open to all, is a useful bibliographic tool, as is the more advanced L'Année Philologique, available only to users with VUW web identities (<http://www.annee-philologique.com/helicon.vuw.ac.nz/aph/>). Both are searchable.

- The Stoa Consortium (<http://www.stoa.org>) contains materials on a wide range of topics; note especially Diotima (<http://www.stoa.org/diotima>), on women in the ancient world.

CLAS 101

Course Handout 2012

- The Perseus Project (<http://www.perseus.tufts.edu/hopper/>) contains many ancient texts, both in original languages and in translation, as well as images and secondary works. Perseus is a relatively reliable source.
- Be extremely cautious about using websites as a resource. Most websites on Classical topics contain material that is either too basic for university-level work, out of date, or erroneous.
- When citing or quoting from a website, always give the author, the date the material was put up, and the complete URI or URL (address) of the specific page you are citing. If the web page is a replica of a print publication, cite only the print version. Note that the rules about plagiarism apply to websites just as to printed material.
