Office room: Murphy 720

Office phone: 463 9638

Email: Simon.Keller@vuw.ac.nz

Office hours: Wednesday 2-3 and by appointment

Class times and locations

Lecture time: Mondays and Wednesdays 3.10pm-5pm

Lecture venue: Laby LT118

Course delivery

The bi-weekly meetings will include some lecturing, plus discussion, informal group assignments, and time for questions. There are no tutorials for this course.

Communication of additional information

There will be a course site on Blackboard, which will contain a copy of the course outline, any notes distributed in class, and any announcements. Nothing essential will be placed on the Blackboard site without being announced or distributed in class. The notes placed on Blackboard will not represent all of the course content. Much of the most important material will be delivered only in class.

Course Prescription

This course examines major positions and issues in contemporary political and moral philosophy, including liberalism, libertarianism, socialism, communitarianism and feminism.

Some of the philosophers we read are John Rawls, Robert Nozick, Isaiah Berlin, and Susan Okin.

Learning objectives

Students passing the course should understand the major positions in contemporary moral and political philosophy, and should be able to apply the analytical methods of political philosophy to practical political problems.

Students passing the course should also advance their abilities to undertake logical and critical thinking, conceptual analysis, and rational and ethical decision-making. They should also practice and improve their critical writing skills.

Students are expected to attend classes regularly, take part in class discussion, and keep up with the reading.

Graduate attributes

As with all PHIL courses, learning objectives of this course contribute to the attainment of specific attributes in the areas of logical and critical thinking, conceptual analysis and rational and ethical decision-making. For more details please consult our website <http://www.victoria.ac.nz/hppi/about/overview-of-the-school/phil-overview#grad-attributes>

Expected workload

The University's guideline for a 20-point course is 200 hours over the entire trimester, including time in class.

Readings

Essential texts:

Students must purchase the PHIL/POLS 262 Course Book.

Students should also purchase G. A. Cohen, Why Not Socialism? (Princeton University Press, 2009).

All undergraduate textbooks and student notes will be sold from the Memorial Theatre foyer from 13 February to 16 March 2012, while postgraduate textbooks and student notes will be available from the top floor of vicbooks in the Student Union Building, Kelburn Campus.

After week two of the trimester all undergraduate textbooks and student notes will be sold from vicbooks on Level 4 of the Student Union Building.

Customers can order textbooks and student notes online at www.vicbooks.co.nz or can email an order or enquiry to enquiries@vicbooks.co.nz. Books can be couriered to customers or they can be picked up from nominated collection points at each campus. Customers will be contacted when they are available.

Opening hours are 8.00 am – 6.00 pm, Monday – Friday during term time (closing at 5.00 pm in the holidays). Phone: 463 5515.

Recommended Reading:

Extra reading is not necessary. The following two books provide helpful backgrounds to many of the topics on the course.

Will Kymlicka, Contemporary Political Philosophy 2nd Ed. (Oxford University Press, 2002).

Adam Swift, Political Philosophy (Cambridge: Polity, 2006).

Assessment requirements

1. Occasional unannounced in-class tests, spread across the trimester, together worth 20% of the final grade.
2. A 1000 word essay, due in class on Wednesday 28 March, worth 20% of the final grade. Topics will be distributed on Monday 12 March.
3. A 2500 word essay, due in class on Wednesday 6 June, worth 30% of the final grade. Topics will be distributed on Wednesday 9 May.
4. A two-hour closed-book final exam, to be scheduled during the exam period (Friday 15 June – Wednesday 4 July), worth 30% of the final grade.

Penalties

Make-ups for the in-class tests will not be permitted.

Students will be penalised for late submission of essays—a deduction of 2.5% for each day. Penalties may be waived if there are valid grounds, e.g., illness (presentation of a medical certificate will be necessary) or similar other contingencies. In these cases, you must notify the course coordinator as soon as possible.

It is permissible to go 10% over the word limit for each of the essays (but try to avoid it!). Any further material will not be marked. (So, if you submit 2000 words for the first essay, you will be marked on the first 1100 words only.)

Mandatory course requirements

To gain a pass in this course, each student must complete both essays. (It is possible to pass the course if you miss the in-class tests or the exam, but not possible if you fail to submit one of the essays, regardless of your overall grades for the course.)

Class Representative

A class representative will be elected in the first week of class, and that person's name and contact details will be available to VUWSA, the Course Coordinator and the class. The class representative provides a communication channel to liaise with the Course Coordinator on behalf of students.

Academic Integrity and Plagiarism

Academic integrity means that university staff and students, in their teaching and learning are expected to treat others honestly, fairly and with respect at all times. It is not acceptable to mistreat academic, intellectual or creative work that has been done by other people by representing it as your own original work.

Academic integrity is important because it is the core value on which the University's learning, teaching and research activities are based. Victoria University's reputation for academic integrity adds value to your qualification.

The University defines plagiarism as presenting someone else's work as if it were your own, whether you mean to or not. 'Someone else's work' means anything that is not your own idea. Even if it is presented in your own style, you must acknowledge your sources fully and appropriately. This includes:

- Material from books, journals or any other printed source
- The work of other students or staff
- Information from the internet
- Software programs and other electronic material
- Designs and ideas
- The organisation or structuring of any such material

Find out more about plagiarism, how to avoid it and penalties, on the University's website: <http://www.victoria.ac.nz/home/study/plagiarism.aspx>

Use of Turnitin

Student work provided for assessment in this course may be checked for academic integrity by the electronic search engine <http://www.turnitin.com>. Turnitin is an online plagiarism prevention tool which compares submitted work with a very large database of existing material. At the discretion of the Head of School, handwritten work may be copy-typed by the School and subject to checking by Turnitin. Turnitin will retain a copy of submitted material on behalf of the University for detection of future plagiarism, but access to the full text of submissions is not made available to any other party.
