Prescription

An integrated course of literature and language.

Course learning objectives (CLOs)

Students who pass this course will be able to:

1. know the meaning of a wide range of ancient Greek vocabulary;
2. understand most elements of ancient Greek morphology and syntax;

3. read simple passages of ancient Greek with fluency;
4. translate English sentences into Greek with difficulty;
5. appreciate many aspects of the historical contexts in which the language was used.

Teaching format

All teaching will be during the class times specified above. In class, the lecturer explains the elements of Greek language (vocabulary, morphology, and syntax), and elements of ancient Greek society and history. Students will participate fully in all activities, including reading and translating sentences and passages, and writing answers on the whiteboard. Students will complete all homework exercises in advance, and bring their work to class for in-class checking (homework will not be collected).

Workload

In order to complete the course successfully, an 'average' student should expect to spend somewhere in the neighbourhood of 200 hours on the course. The following is a suggested model:

In class: 4 hours per week, 48 hours total.

Preparing for class: 7 hours per week, 84 hours total.

Revising for tests: 3 hours per week, 36 hours total.

Revising for the 2-hour final examination (and sitting it): 30 + 2 = 32 hours in total.

The time commitment will be greatest just prior to assessment dates.

Assessment

Assessment is 60% internal, 40% by examination. It is designed to help the student and teacher evaluate progress in four key areas as well as to provide a final grade. The main areas to be tested are: (a) learning of vocabulary and grammar; (b) understanding of how vocabulary and grammar are used, tested by the translation of simple sentences of Greek to English or English to Greek; (c) application of the student's knowledge by translating longer passages from Greek into English; (d) short-answer questions on elements of ancient Greek society and history.

Assessment is through tests and assignments scheduled on a more-or-less fortnightly basis. There is no credit for attendance, but students wishing to achieve a pass mark are strongly advised to attend at least 85% of all classes, to complete all preparation for every class, and to participate in each class.

Assessment items and workload per item		%	CLO(s)	Due date
1	20-minute test	10%	1, 2, 3, 5	Fri. 11 March
2	20-minute test	10%	1, 2, 3, 5	Fri. 1 April
3	20-minute test	10%	1, 2, 3, 5	Fri. 15 April
4	Take-home assignment	20%	1, 2, 3, 4	Fri. 29 April
5	20-minute test	10%	1, 2, 3, 5	Fri. 13 May
6	20-minute test	10%	1, 2, 3, 5	Fri. 27 May
7	2-hour final exam	40%	1, 2, 3, 4, 5	TBA

20-minute tests (40%). Five tests are scheduled, roughly fortnightly. Each test is worth 10%; the best four tests will contribute 40% of the final grade. These tests will consist of questions on vocabulary; morphology, syntax, and translation into English; and exercises on elements of ancient Greek society, myth, and language.

Take-home assignment (20%). One assignment to be completed outside of class and submitted by 5 pm on the date specified above. Question sheets will be handed out in class at least one week before the due date. Unlike the 20-minute tests, the assignment will involve translation from English into Greek.

Final exam (40%). The exam will take the form of an extra-long test, with the same kinds of questions as in the in-term tests. There will also be a small component of translation into Greek.

Marking criteria. You are expected to write legibly. What cannot be read will be counted as wrong. Work in tests will be marked on the accuracy of your grammatical knowledge and your understanding of vocabulary.

Submission and return of work

Written work submitted as part of the internal assessment of this course should be handed in to the Assignment Box (located next to OK 508) or given or (preferably) emailed directly to the course coordinator. If you email it and you don't get a reply, it has not been received and you must re-submit it.

All in-term tests must be taken on the day set, unless there are demonstrable extenuating circumstances. Tests and assignments will normally be returned the following Monday.

Extensions and penalties

Extensions

In-class tests must be sat in class on the prescribed day. Students who find that they need an extension on a take-home assignment must contact the course coordinator in writing (e-mail or via pigeonhole in Old Kirk 508). An extension is not guaranteed, so contact the course coordinator as far as possible in advance of the deadline. Extensions will not be granted retroactively except in cases of bereavement or serious demonstrable medical impairment.

Penalties

The penalty for late submission of the take-home assignment is one grade (i.e. 5% of the total mark for the assignment) for each late day (including Saturdays/Sundays).

Class representative

The class representative provides a useful way to communicate feedback to the teaching staff during the course. A class representative will be selected at the first lecture of the course.

Student feedback

We have carefully reviewed feedback and results from student evaluations of past iterations of GREE 215. These were largely positive, with no salient suggestions for changes to the course. Thus we are continuing to offer GREE 215 in its present form.
