Communication of additional information

This course uses Blackboard and presumes that all enrolled students have valid myvuw.ac.nz addresses. Please check that this account is active and you have organised email forwarding. Additional information and any changes to the timetable or lecture and tutorial programme will be advised by email, announced in lectures, and posted on the course Blackboard site.

Prescription

This course studies a variety of paradoxes and contemporary philosophical responses to them. Paradoxes to be discussed may include: Zeno's paradoxes, the Sorites paradox, Newcombs' paradox, prisoners' dilemma, the surprise examination paradox, and the liar paradox.

Course learning objectives (CLOs)

Students who pass this course will be able to:

1. integrate disciplinary knowledge and skills developed at 200 level and apply them to the study of philosophical paradoxes.
2. provide original solutions, or considerations for or against established solutions, to the paradoxes
3. engage in original and ethical research in philosophy under close supervision.

Teaching format

PHIL 371 is delivered as two 2-hour lectures per week. A Lecture Programme will be available on Blackboard.

Workload

This course has been designed on the assumption that students will devote approximately 200 hours to it throughout the trimester. This is an average of 13 hours per week across the 12 weeks of trimester. This includes attendance at 24 two-hour lectures. The remainder of your time will need to be shared between lecture preparation and making progress on assignments.

Things to consider when planning your time:

- Essays and other written assignments may require enough time for location, retrieval and reading of a range of sources. Note-taking, planning, drafting and editing the draft will all be necessary before writing up a final version.

Assessment

Assessment items and workload per item	%	CLO(s)	Due date
1 Essay 1 (around 2,500 words)	40%	1, 2, 3	19 April, 10am

2	Essay 2 (around 2,500 words)	40%	1, 2, 3	31 May, 10am
3	Six in-class quizzes (each 20 minutes and each worth 4%, dropping lowest score)	20%	1	See below

(a) Two essays

WHERE TO HAND IN YOUR ESSAYS: You must submit your essay electronically via Blackboard. Please consult Blackboard for instructions). This electronic version may be sent to turnitin.com, an anti-plagiarism website, and is the version that will be graded. However, as a back-up you must also submit a paper copy of your essay to the course coordinator (CeI) in class or to the School office (MY 518), prior to the due-date.

ESSAY TOPICS: students may formulate their own essay topics; sample topics will be available on Blackboard.

HOW TO WRITE YOUR ESSAYS: Students are expected to do some original research by identifying and engaging with relevant papers. If you get stuck, or don't know how to begin then come to see the Course Coordinator in her office hours or make an appointment to meet with her at your convenience. You may request comments on a draft, provided some advance notice is given. See the handout "Assessment criteria" (available on BlackBoard website) for general advice on writing a philosophy paper. Model papers written by previous students are also available on request. P. Martinich, Philosophical Writing, Blackwell, 1996 is highly recommended

HOW YOUR ESSAYS WILL BE MARKED: See the handout "Assessment Criteria..." (at the front of your course reader) for a statement of the criteria that will be used in marking essays.

(b) In-class quizzes, together worth 20% of total course marks.

These are short-answer tests, taking the first 20 minutes of class time, every second Friday of class (i.e. 11 March, 1 April, 15 April, 6 May, 20 May, 3 June). There will be six quizzes, but only your best five quiz marks will count towards your final mark. The quizzes will be on material from the previous lectures and you will be given review questions in advance.

Submission and return of work

Essays should be submitted in hard copy through the School Office essay drop-off point, Murphy Building (MY518) and electronically through Blackboard, together with completed cover sheet available on Blackboard or from the office by 10am.

When marked, quizzes will initially be returned to you in lectures. Uncollected marked essays and quizzes will be available from the School Office Murphy (MY518), between 2.00 - 3.00 pm Monday-Friday.

Extensions and penalties

Extensions

The circumstances under which an extension will be considered are outlined in section 3.2.1 of the Assessment Handbook.

(See: www.victoria.ac.nz/documents/policy/staff-policy/assessment-handbook.pdf).

Penalties

Philosophy Programme policy stipulates that late submission of essays is penalised. Late essays submitted without extensions having been obtained will receive a penalty of 5 points per day (or part thereof) late. Make-up quizzes will not be given, although the lowest quiz grade will be dropped for each student.

Late submission of essays will not get a grade higher than a C- unless the student makes an appointment as soon as practically possible with the course coordinator to explain the lateness (preferably before the essay is due to be submitted).

Recommended reading

See separate class hand-out for the schedule of assigned readings.

Class representative

The class representative provides a useful way to communicate feedback to the teaching staff during the course. A class representative will be selected at the first lecture of the course.

Student feedback

PHIL 371 was not evaluated in its first year, but will be evaluated this year.

Student feedback on University courses may be found at www.cad.vuw.ac.nz/feedback/feedback_display.php.
