NZ Centre for International Economic Law

Peter Bale, Center for Public Integrity

Join us for a special event to explore the impacts and implications from the recent Panama Papers, both in New Zealand and around the world. Peter Bale will speak about the Panama Papers and the circumstances of their disclosure. Following Peter's address, scholars from Victoria—Dr Mark Bennett from the Faculty of Law and Dr Michael Macaulay from the Institute for Governance and Policy Studies—will comment on the legal and policy implications. The event will be chaired by Professor Susy Frankel, Director of New Zealand Centre of International Economic Law.

RSVP: nzcpl-panamapapers.eventbrite.co.nz

Peter Bale is the chief executive officer at the Center for Public Integrity, the global non-profit investigative journalism organisation based in Washington, DC. Before joining the Center, Peter had a distinguished career in journalism, including online editorial roles for the Times and the Sunday Times in London, as a Reuters correspondent and as editorial director at MSN. He also founded FTMarketWatch.
