

CELAO2016
Conference
7-9 December

Our shared ocean

Navigating the Links between Latin America, Asia and the Pacific

About CELAO

Our multi-regional and multidisciplinary organisation, the Council for Latin American Studies of Asia and Oceania (CELAO), was established in Osaka, Japan in 2003 to serve as a forum for research on Latin America, and to promote cooperation with similar organisations devoted to Latin American studies in the Asia and Oceania regions.

Conferences have been held at La Trobe University (Melbourne, Australia, 2005); Seoul University (South Korea, 2007); Jawaharlal Nehru University (New Delhi, India, 2008); University of Guadalajara (Mexico, 2010); University of Asia and the Pacific (Manila, Philippines, 2012); and, Kyoto University, (Japan, 2014).

Victoria Institute for Links with Latin America, on behalf of Victoria University of Wellington, is proud to host CELAO 2016. Our chosen theme—

Our Shared Ocean—will allow us to reflect on links that stretch across our vast ocean, from a cultural, political and economic viewpoint.

A special welcome to CELAO president Associate Professor Yusuke Murakami from Kyoto University, Japan, and previous CELAO presidents Professors Enrique Valencia Lomeli, Abdul Nafey, Barry Carr, Won-Ho Kim and Fernando Zialcita.

Welcome to Our Shared Ocean: Navigating the Links between Latin America, Asia and the Pacific

Haere mai, bienvenidos, bem-vindos and welcome to the seventh biennial international gathering of the Council for Latin American Studies of Asia and Oceania.

Aotearoa and other Pacific nations and territories—Oceania—are considered bridges, or stepping stones across the Pacific. New Zealand provides an excellent location to come together and reflect on the historical and contemporary ties that bind Asia, the Pacific and Latin America.

A popular external misconception of the Pacific is that of a void that separates the dynamic territories of Asia and the Pacific. We believe that the ocean does not divide, but unites us as we navigate, inhabit and reinvent that which links us.

A conference of this nature is the time to establish new academic connections and friendships while renewing old ones. We hope that the interactions that take place over the next few days will help us sustain the community of scholars in Asia and Oceania dedicated to studies in, of and with Latin America.

Over the next two days you will hear voices from five continents, including some highly-esteemed keynote presenters who will talk of issues of crucial academic importance. The conference covers a range of topics including:

- cultural histories and the settlement of Latin America, Asia–Pacific, and Oceania
- comparative histories and contemporary reflections on indigeneity
- contemporary cultural realities in Latin America, Asia–Pacific and Oceania
- comparative creative arts in literature, music and other forms
- economic integration and the Trans-Pacific Partnership Agreement (TPPA)
- comparative political economy in Asia–Pacific, Oceania and Latin America
- closer political integration within and between Asia–Pacific, Oceania and Latin America
- comparative environmental challenges in Asia–Pacific, Latin America and Oceania
- New Zealand’s role as a bridge between Asia–Pacific and Latin America
- scientific and educational links and shared challenges between our regions.

We encourage you to speak your mind, connect with each other and share your stories as we reflect on the cultural and historic links across our shared ocean, from a cultural, political and economic viewpoint.

Professor Warwick Murray and Dr Nicola Gilmour

Keynote Speakers

Professor Alan Knight

Emeritus Professor of the History of Latin America

Alan Knight, Emeritus Professor of the History of Latin America, University of Oxford, and Fellow of St Antony's College, previously taught at the University of Essex, UK, and the University of Texas, Austin.

His research encompasses the comparative study of Latin America—including themes of revolution, populism, peasant movements, and democracy—and focuses in particular on modern Mexico.

His major works include, The Mexican Revolution (2 vols. 1986; revised Spanish translation, 2010); US-Mexican Relations, 1910–40: An Interpretation (1987); Mexico: From the Beginning to the Spanish Conquest (2002); Mexico: The Colonial Era (2002); Revolución, Democracia y Populismo en América Latina (2005) and La Revolución Cósmica (2013).

Professor Knight has co-edited books on the Mexican petroleum industry, caciquismo, superstition in history and the great depression in Latin America. He has also published articles and chapters including work on populism, peasant movements, imperialism and historiography.

He is currently working on a history of Mexico in the 1930s. In 2010, he was awarded the prestigious Aztec Eagle.

Dr Carlos Alzugaray Treto

Former Ambassador of Cuba to the European Union

Dr Alzugaray Treto was born in Havana in 1943. He is a Cuban diplomat, educator and writer.

He graduated from Havana University in 1965, and also completed undergraduate work at Sophia University's International Division in Tokyo, Japan, from 1959–1961. He holds a Master's Degree on Contemporary History (1997) and a PhD on the History of International Relations (1998) from the University of Havana. Professionally, he has been a member of the Cuban Foreign Service (1961–1996), a Professor of International Relations at different Cuban institutions (1980–2012) and an Editor and Member of the Advisory Council of the Cuban social science & humanities journal Temas (Topics) (since 2010).

At present he is a member of the National Union of Writers and Artists of Cuba (UNEAC), an independent international affairs analyst and an advisor for New Cuba Consulting, a business consultant firm.

In the Foreign Service he served in Cuban embassies and consulates in Japan, Bulgaria, Argentina, Canada, Ethiopia and Belgium. From 1992–1994 he was Advisor to the Cuban Minister of Foreign Affairs, and from 1994–1996 served as Ambassador, Chief of Mission, to the European Union.

As an educator he achieved the rank of Profesor Titular (Professor) in 1999 and taught at the Higher Institute of International Affairs (at which he also served as Vice Dean, Head of Department and Coordinator of Strategic Studies), the University of Havana (at which he is still consultant for the Center for Caribbean Studies and the Center for Hemispheric and United States Studies), the National Defense College and the Academy of the Armed Forces. He has been honoured with the annual title of National Distinguished Professor (five times) and Researcher (on one occasion).

He has published three books and more than 100 articles, essays and book chapters. In Cuba, he has been honoured by the Critics' Prize for best non-fiction book (2000) and the Casa de las Américas literary prize (on two occasions—2001 and 2013).

He was a member of the Cuban Academy of Sciences between 2000 and 2012 and a member of the Executive Committee of the Latin American Political Science Association between 2002 and 2010. At present he is a member of the International Studies Association (ISA) and the Latin American Studies Association (LASA). He is also a member of the Executive Committee of the Cuba Section, LASA.

He has been Visiting Professor or Research Fellow in the following institutions outside Cuba: Beloit College, Queens College (CUNY), Harvard University and Johns Hopkins University in the USA; European University Institute in Italy; University of the Basque Country in Bilbao, Spain; Instituto Tecnológico Autónomo de México (ITAM); and the University of Winnipeg in Canada.

Victoria's Story

Victoria University is one of New Zealand's oldest and most prestigious tertiary institutions with a proud tradition of academic excellence.

The University, originally known as Victoria College, was founded in 1897. This was the year of Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee celebrations.

Victoria University is characterised by the depth, consistency and effectiveness of our culture of domestic and international engagement. Our commitment to reciprocal, high-quality relationships springs from identifying and understanding the need for New Zealand to achieve sustainable development.

Victoria has developed close ties with a wide range of businesses and government organisations, and several recent initiatives are aimed at improving the University's engagement with industry.

Victoria's historic strength in public policy has been fully demonstrated by substantial contributions to major government projects, and entrepreneurship education is an emerging strength on which we intend to build. Victoria also gives high priority to engagement with Māori and Pacific communities.

We aim to produce graduates whose learning has been developed inside and outside of the classroom, experientially, and informed by a global perspective.

Exhibition

During the conference, there will be an art exhibition on display in the Hunter Common Room.

‘Picturing me, picturing you’—‘Imaginándome, Imaginándote’

Art Exhibition

Collaborative art project between St Marys College, Wellington, New Zealand and Paul Harris School, Viña del Mar, Chile.

By Leila Goddard and Lisa Mrkusic, St Mary’s College, Cristian Ramos Gómez, Paul Harris School and Carlos Ramirez, Viña del Mar University

‘Picturing me, picturing you’—‘Imaginándome, Imaginándote’ is a colourful and creative display of the impressions and ideas that youth in New Zealand and Chile have of each other. The representation of self and the other across the ocean will be in display throughout the conference in the Hunter Common Room. Students of St Mary’s College will be presenting their art work during Morning Tea on Thursday 8 from 10.30-11.00am.

Conference Functions
